Liu Is Insulted, But Mao Claims Seem Premature

TOKYO (AP)—A yelling crowd was reported today to have humiliated Communist China's President Liu Shao-chi by forcing him to recite a paragraph from a book by Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Japanese reports quoting wall posters said Liu and his wife, Wang Kuang-mei, were "dragged" before a curbside kangaroo court in Chung Nan Hai Park in Peking Jan. 26 and Liu was denounced as a "bourgeois reactionary."

Other reports said Mao's followers were quarreling among themselves and that their claims of victory over forces loyal to Liu in two major cities appeared premature.

The wall posters said the 69-year-old Liu faltered through the first paragraph from Mao's red-covered book of quotations.

"The force at the core leading our cause forward is the Chinese Communist party. The theoretical basis guiding our thinking is Marxism-Leninism," the first paragraph says.

Liu's wife, herself a target of Mao's Red Guards, repeatedly tried to help him, the reports said. They said she assured the crowd that he could recite what they demanded and hurriedly corrected him when he omitted the words "force at the core."

The posters, unconfirmed by other sources and dated Jan. 31, were the first recent indication of Liu's whereabouts.

The Communist party organ Red Flag warned that "ultra-democracy, anarchism, individualism" and "small-group mentality" could cause a great split among pro-Mao groups.

Red Flag, edited by Mao's purge chief, Chen Po-ta, called for a "great alliance" of Mao's supporters. It said strict "revolutionary discipline" was necessary to defeat the forces of President Liu Shao-chi.

Peking wall posters reported that Mao had ordered forgiveness of opponents who repented, in order to widen his support.

Mao's hold appeared shaky in China's largest city, Shanghai, and in Taiyuan, capital of Shanxi Province in the north.

Radio Peking quoted the Wen Hui Pao, a Maoist newspaper in Shanghai, as saying the city's municipal party committee has not been struck down thoroughly yet.

The newspaper referred to a "reactionary reverse current" in Shanghai and said Maoists could lose what power they had gained unless new plots were defeated.

"We must further unite in the struggle to seize completely the power in the party, government and finances of Shanghai district," the paper said.

It said Mao's followers must distinguish between bourgeois leaders, who should be removed, and proletarian leaders, who should be trusted. Rebellion against all authorities, it said, is a mistake.

In Taiyuan, a pro-Mao newspaper said the Maoist group met resistance and some members defected, while others schemed to form another organization.

Radio Moscow said a force led by party and military leader Wang En-mao was holding out in the mountains of Sinkiang Province after a regular army unit loyal to Mao occupied Urumchi, the provincial capital.

The Soviet report was not confirmed elsewhere. Nationalist Chinese observers were said to believe that events in Sinkiang, on the far northwest border with the Soviet Union, could hold the key to the outcome of Mao's purge.

The Soviet warning came as the Chinese Embassy in Moscow charged that 31 members of its staff were beaten Friday night in a Soviet raid on the embassy by "170 goons and youths." The Russians denied the charges.

The Soviet statement said that recent events in China testify "to the intention of the present Chinese leadership to press for the further deterioration and aggravation of relations with the U.S.S.R."

It declared: "the things now happening in Peking are even more cynical than the action of the Chiang Kai-shek authorities in the darkest periods of their reactionary domination."

Canadians Always Aware Of Alleged U.S. Threat

OTTAWA (AP) — The intensity may vary but the occasional visitor can be sure he will always find Canadians battling over the alleged threat of U.S. domination — or some other aspect of U.S.-Canadian relations.

At the moment, differences over Vietnam, Red China and other political issues continue to be an irritant, but a new wave of economic nationalism is adding fuel to the flames.

This is exemplified by the controversy over the U.S.-owned Mercantile Bank of Montreal. The Canadian government is planning legislation to limit expansion of the bank unless it sells 75 per cent of its stock to Canadian interests.

The situation has been aggravated by charges that U.S. Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth used "ham-handed" tactics in trying to block the legislation. There also have been threats of U.S. retaliation against Canadian banks south of the border.

Another sign of the times is the return of former Finance Minister Walter Gordon to the Cabinet and his appointment by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson to head a five-man task force assigned to look into the effects of foreign ownership and control of Canadian industry.

Gordon is known as one of the country's most outspoken economic nationalists.

The Montreal Gazette's veteran Ottawa correspondent, Arthur Blakely, said U.S.-Canadian relations had been deteriorating even before Gordon's return to the Cabinet. He added they now have "sunk to their lowest level since the 1962-63 crisis over Canadian hesitancy to adopt nuclear weapons — a crisis which ended only with the breakup and defeat of the John G. Diefenbaker Conservative government."

One of the big debates in Canada is over Vietnam. The Pearson government has been critical.

In a petition to the court Jan. 26, Hoffa claimed new evidence of eavesdropping had been uncovered since the high court upheld his conviction Dec. 12.

The Teamsters leader faces eight years in prison on the jury tampering charge. He also is appealing another five-year sentence on a conspiracy conviction.

The Justice Department said it has investigated further since the latest Hoffa appeal and now has "gathered affidavits and other evidence which may be presented" if court hearings are ordered. No affidavits were submitted.

The department noted this was Hoffa's fourth appeal of the jury tampering conviction and that rewards of $225,000 had been offered in his behalf to anyone who would provide evidence of government eavesdropping.

"In these circumstances and against the background of petitioners' prior collateral challenges to their convictions, there is every reason to view petitioners' affidavits with skepticism," it said.

President Johnson said Thursday in a news conference that "just almost any step" toward peace from North Vietnam could lead to a halt in the bombings.

Meanwhile at the United Nations, Secretary-General U Thant was reported by a spokesman to be continuing "in his own quiet way" efforts at peace.

cal of U.S. policy, but has continued to support it generally. As a result, it has faced public criticism.

The Toronto Globe & Mail expressed belief that a majority of Canadians "have strong doubts about U.S. policy in Vietnam." It added: "It should be made clear to Washington that it cannot take our continued support for granted."

Dealing in a more general way with U.S.-Canadian relations, the Montreal Star said:

"Canada has responded differently over the years to American initiative. Under John Diefenbaker we blustered and quit; under Lester Pearson we folded our tents. If we have a foreign policy to conduct, we should conduct it. We should stand up and say, 'Damn it, this is not for us.'"

Hoffa Claims Bring Denial

Justice Department Says No Bugging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says Teamster President James R. Hoffa's claim that he was bugged during his 1964 jury tampering trial is "without any foundation in fact."

And the department sees big rewards offered in Hoffa's behalf as one reason to view "with skepticism" the affidavits supporting the eavesdropping charge.

The Justice Department told the Supreme Court in a memorandum Friday that even before Hoffa raised the eavesdropping issue, it had reviewed the case and found there was no monitoring of Hoffa, his lawyers or the jury at the Chattanooga, Tenn., trial.

In a petition to the court Jan. 26, Hoffa claimed new evidence of eavesdropping had been uncovered since the high court upheld his conviction Dec. 12.

Czech-Held American Is on Way Back Home

Travel Agent Is Released

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Czech government expelled today Vladimir Kazan-Komarek, an American travel agent who three days ago was sentenced to eight years in a Communist prison for espionage.

The State Department said its embassy in Prague cabled word that Kazan-Komarek left on a commercial airliner shortly before 4 a.m. He was due to arrive in New York in midafternoon.

"Naturally we are gratified that Mr. Kazan-Komarek has been released," said State Department press officer Carl Barth.

The Czech action was viewed in official circles as a step toward easing East-West tensions. The United States had protested the 42-year-old travel agent's arrest and trial.

In Wellesley, Mass., Kazan-Komarek's wife Dorothy said, "I still can't believe it—that he's coming home, actually coming home. I don't think I'm going to believe it until he's actually landed and I see him." The couple has five children.

After Kazan-Komarek's conviction Wednesday, his attorney had requested suspension of the sentence and expulsion of the travel agent. He had been charged with "attempted overthrow of the government and espionage."

The sensational case developed last Oct. 31 when he was arrested at Prague airport when a Soviet airliner en route non-stop from Moscow to Paris made an unscheduled landing. U.S. officials accused the Soviet Union at the time of working with Czech police to deliver an American citizen into their hands.

After his arrest, the United States had stalled issuance of travel permission for Czech citizens to the United States. This is a form of retaliatory pressure for what the State Department had denounced as inexcusable violations of the rights of a U.S. citizen.

Cong Sabotages U.S. Army Dump

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Explosions and fire, believed touched off by Viet Cong saboteurs did heavy damage today to large sections of a huge U.S. Army ammunition dump near Saigon.

It was the fourth time in a little more than three months that the munitions depot at Long Binh 14 miles north of Saigon has been hit.

Fourteen hours after the first explosion at 3:25 a.m., smoke still poured from many parts of the dump. It was still too hot and dangerous for U.S. Army demolitions experts to enter.

In war action, U.S. B52 heavy bombers staged four raids over South Vietnam today for a second straight day.

American jet bombers flew through intense flak Friday to pound a major rail yard and other targets north of Hanoi for the first time in more than two weeks of poor weather.

In all, U.S. pilots flew 57 bombing missions — about 200 individual strikes — against the north. Among the forays, Navy fighters from three aircraft carriers in the Tonkin Gulf reported damaging or destroying 16 cargo barges and junks on the coast and in inland waterways.

In South Vietnam, ground fighting continued on a small scale with the U.S. and South Vietnamese military commands reporting scattered, short engagements.

U.S. Marines, supported by air strikes and artillery barrages, reported killing 29 Communists in scattered fighting in the northern provinces, mostly southwest of Da Nang.

Units of the South Korean White Horse Division, operating 15 miles northwest of Nha Trang on the central coast, reported killing 27 Viet Cong during Operation White Horse One. The Koreans claim 183 enemy killed since the operation started Sunday.

4 Americans Released by East Germans

BERLIN (AP) — Four tired but jubilant Americans shouted "Freiheit! — freedom!" as they crossed into West Berlin Friday night after being released from prison in Communist East Germany.

They were Mary Heilen Battle, 26, Oak Ridge, Tenn.; William W. Lovett, 26, San Francisco, Calif.; Moses Reese Herrin, 26, Akron, Ohio; and Frederick Matthews, 24, Ellwood City, Pa.

All had been imprisoned more than a year, but were released before their sentences were over. Lovett had been charged in connection with a traffic accident in Leipzig and the other three with attempting to aid East Germans escape to the West.

Officials in Washington said they knew of secret talks prior to the Americans' release, but that "no swap arrangement" was involved in this case.

Before talking with newsmen, the four were given a meal and had a short time to relax. Lovett had a pizza and the others steak and apple pie.

Miss Battle, arrested in November 1965 and sentenced last April to four years, appeared tired, but in good health. At times she spoke in German, saying, "I can't think anymore in English."

She said she was treated "like any other German prisoner" and had to perform manual labor and housework. Only two days ago she was informed when she would be released and said, "You can't believe my anticipation."

The tall, willowy ash blonde was a theology student at West Berlin's Free University when she was arrested for trying to help a young East German man to escape to West Berlin.

"I felt I was trapped into being arrested," she told newsmen. (Continued on Page 10)

Key Men Doubt Soviets Will Cooperate on Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key men in the U.S. space program say they would like to share its cost in a joint venture with the Soviet Union, but they doubt this will happen.

They were asked to comment on a London newspaper article this week by Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's Jodrell Bank radio telescope station. Lovell said space exploration was so complex and expensive it demanded global cooperation.

Lovell also said last week's Apollo disaster which killed three astronauts would lead to renewed questions about the U.S. moon landing program, including whether there should be a race with the Soviets to the moon.

Dr. Edward C. Welsh, President Johnson's principal space adviser, suggested that Lovell's all-nation approach to the lunar research program was "more idealistic than realistic."

"It is, of course, relatively easy for those who have not invested billions of dollars in a venture to criticize those who have," Welsh, executive secretary of the National Space Council, said.

"It is the policy of this country to cooperate with other nations whenever it is practical and whenever other nations are willing to do so."

Arnold W. Frutkin, National Aeronautics and Space Administration assistant administrator for international affairs, said the concept of a cooperative space program reflected the long-standing view of the United States.

"The necessary ingredient is Soviet cooperation," he said. "We have not had an affirmative response from them on that yet."

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., chairman of the Senate Space Committee, said he always supported efforts to bring other nations into a cooperative space exploration program.

"That might make the effort less costly for us, but I don't believe it necessarily would reduce the risks of accidents to astronauts," Anderson

Hanoi Reacts To LBJ Talk

MOSCOW (AP)—President Johnson's statement that he had not seen genuine peace efforts by North Vietnam met with "legitimate indignation" in Hanoi, Tass, the Soviet news agency said today.

A report from a Tass correspondent in Hanoi said Johnson ignored an earlier statement by North Vietnam's Foreign Minister Nguyen Dui Trinh on the possibility of talks "after an unconditional end to the bombings" of North Vietnam.

The Tass report claimed the North Vietnam government "many times demonstrated its strivings for peace" and said "it was the first to put forward the well-known four points which constitute the most reasonable and just grounds for the solution of the Vietnamese problem."

Shore Leave Cancelled At Cape Town

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Shore leave for officers and crew of the U.S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt was canceled as it arrived today en route home from Vietnam, apparently to avoid any conflict with South Africa's apartheid laws.

Both whites and Negroes on board will have to remain on board while the vessel takes on fuel and provisions, the South African Press Association reported. The carrier will leave Tuesday.

U.S. congressmen had said earlier the estimated 400 Negroes and 3,000 whites would not observe apartheid and would be provided organized recreation on an integrated basis.

This was contrary to elaborate arrangements for the shore leave made in Cape Town on the basis of race segregation.

Tens of thousands of South Africans thronged beaches and vantage points this morning as the Roosevelt appeared in fine weather.

The ship's executive officer, Cmdr. Robert F. Shultz, announced cancellation of the shore leave at a news conference. He said the decision had been made at a "high level," but that he had no information who made the decision.

Canadians Always Aware Of Alleged U.S. Threat

OTTAWA (AP)—The intensity may vary but the occasional visitor can be sure he will always find Canadians battling over the alleged threat of U.S. domination — or some other aspect of U.S.-Canadian relations.

At the moment, differences over Vietnam, Red China and other political issues continue to be an irritant, but a new wave of economic nationalism is adding fuel to the flames.

This is exemplified by the controversy over the U.S.-owned Mercantile Bank of Montreal. The Canadian government is planning legislation to limit expansion of the bank unless it sells 75 per cent of its stock to Canadian interests.

The situation has been aggravated by charges that U.S. Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth used "ham-handed" tactics in trying to block the legislation. There also have been threats of U.S. retaliation against Canadian banks south of the border.

Another sign of the times is the return of former Finance Minister Walter Gordon to the Cabinet and his appointment by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson to head a five-man task force assigned to look into the effects of foreign ownership and control of Canadian industry.

Gordon is known as one of the country's most outspoken economic nationalists.

The Montreal Gazette's veteran Ottawa correspondent, Arthur Blakely, said U.S.-Canadian relations had been deteriorating even before Gordon's return to the Cabinet. He added they now have "sunk to their lowest level since the 1962-63 crisis over Canadian hesitancy to adopt nuclear weapons — a crisis which ended only with the breakup and defeat" of the John G. Diefenbaker Conservative government.

One of the big debates in Canada is over Vietnam. The Pearson government has been critical.

In a petition to the court Jan. 26, Hoffa claimed new evidence of eavesdropping had been uncovered since the high court upheld his conviction Dec. 12.

The Teamsters leader faces eight years in prison on the jury tampering charge. He also is appealing another five-year sentence on a conspiracy conviction.

The Justice Department said it has investigated further since the latest Hoffa appeal and now has "gathered affidavits and other evidence which may be presented" if court hearings are ordered. No affidavits were submitted.

The department noted this was Hoffa's fourth appeal of the jury tampering conviction and that rewards of $225,000 had been offered in his behalf to anyone who would provide evidence of government eavesdropping.

"In these circumstances and against the background of petitions prior collateral challenges to their convictions, there is every reason to view petitioners' affidavits with skepticism," it said.

"At no time have we received any indication, direct or indirect, from North Vietnam that it was prepared to make such a response."

President Johnson said Thursday in a news conference that "just almost any step" toward peace from North Vietnam could lead to a halt in the bombings.

Meanwhile at the United Nations, Secretary-General U. Thant was reported by a spokesman to be continuing "in his own quiet way" efforts at peace.

cal of U.S. policy, but has continued to support it generally. As a result, it has faced public criticism.

The Toronto Globe & Mail expressed belief that a majority of Canadians "have strong doubts about U.S. policy in Vietnam." It added: "It should be made clear to Washington that it cannot take our continued support for granted."

Dealing in a more general way with U.S.-Canadian relations, the Montreal Star said:

"Canada has responded differently over the years to American initiative. Under John Diefenbaker we blustered and quit; under Lester Pearson we folded our tents. If we have a foreign policy to conduct, we should conduct it. We should stand up and say, 'Damn it, this is not for us.'"

Hoffa Claims Bring Denial

Justice Department Says No Bugging

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department says Teamster President James R. Hoffa's claim that he was bugged during his 1964 jury tampering trial is "without any foundation in fact."

And the department sees big rewards offered in Hoffa's behalf as one reason to view "with skepticism" the affidavits supporting the eavesdropping charge.

The Justice Department told the Supreme Court in a memorandum Friday that even before Hoffa raised the eavesdropping issue, it had reviewed the case and found there was no monitoring of Hoffa, his lawyers or the jury at the Chattanooga, Tenn., trial.

In a petition to the court Jan. 26, Hoffa claimed new evidence of eavesdropping had been uncovered since the high court upheld his conviction Dec. 12.

The Teamsters leader faces eight years in prison on the jury tampering charge. He also is appealing another five-year sentence on a conspiracy conviction.

Czech-Held American Is on Way Back Home

Travel Agent Is Released

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Czech government expelled today Vladimir Kazan-Komarek, an American travel agent who three days ago was sentenced to eight years in a Communist prison for espionage.

The State Department said its embassy in Prague cabled word that Kazan-Komarek left on a commercial airliner shortly before 4 a.m. He was due to arrive in New York in midafternoon.

"Naturally we are gratified that Mr. Kazan-Komarek has been released," said State Department press officer Carl Barth.

The Czech action was viewed in official circles as a step toward easing East-West tensions. The United States had protested the 42-year-old travel agent's arrest and trial.

In Wellesley, Mass., Kazan-Komarek's wife Dorothy said, "I still can't believe it—that he's coming home, actually coming home. I don't think I'm going to believe it until he's actually landed and I see him." The couple has five children.

After Kazan-Komarek's conviction Wednesday, his attorney had requested suspension of the sentence and expulsion of the travel agent. He had been charged with "attempted overthrow of the government and espionage."

The sensational case developed last Oct. 31 when he was arrested at Prague airport when a Soviet airliner en route non-stop from Moscow to Paris made an unscheduled landing. U.S. officials accused the Soviet Union at the time of working with Czech police to deliver an American citizen into their hands.

After his arrest, the United States had stalled issuance of travel permission for Czech citizens to the United States. This is a form of retaliatory pressure for what the State Department had denounced as inexcusable violations of the rights of a U.S. citizen.

Reuther Bows Out of Post With AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reuther appears bent on pulling his United Auto Workers Union out of the AFL-CIO, high sources in the giant labor federation said today. The break could come in April.

Reuther resigned as AFL-CIO vice president Friday but stopped short of a complete withdrawal.

Reuther's latest action in his long-term attack on AFL-CIO President George Meany's leadership raised "a distinct possibility" that the 1.3 million auto workers will walk out altogether, informed sources concluded.

Reuther has conducted a nine-month running barrage of criticism, charging that the AFL-CIO has failed to live up to its aims in creating a better life for workers and the nation.

The auto workers will convene in April. If they quit the AFL-CIO, it would be the first major crack in the foundation of the "House of Labor" built by Meany and Reuther in 1955.

Meany headed the old American Federation of Labor and Reuther the Congress of Industrial Organizations when the two often warring factions merged 11 years ago.

Meany, now 73, has been AFL-CIO president from the start and his partisans say the 60-year-old Reuther just wants Meany's job.

Withdrawal of the UAW would be the biggest loss of members for the 13.5-million member AFL-CIO since James R. Hoffa's 1.7-million member Teamsters Union was kicked out on corruption charges in 1955.

The UAW is the biggest of the 129 AFL-CIO unions. There (Continued on Page 10)

Cong Sabotages U.S. Army Dump

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—Explosions and fire, believed touched off by Viet Cong saboteurs did heavy damage today to large sections of a huge U.S. Army ammunition dump near Saigon.

It was the fourth time in a little more than three months that the munitions depot at Long Binh 14 miles north of Saigon has been hit.

Fourteen hours after the first explosion at 3:25 a.m., smoke still poured from many parts of the dump. It was still too hot and dangerous for U.S. Army demolition experts to enter.

In war action, U.S. B52 heavy bombers staged four raids over South Vietnam today for a second straight day.

American jet bombers flew through intense flak Friday to pound a major rail yard and other targets north of Hanoi for the first time in more than two weeks of poor weather.

In all, U.S. pilots flew 57 bombing missions — about 200 individual strikes — against the north. Among the forays, Navy fliers from three aircraft carriers in the Tonkin Gulf reported damaging or destroying 16 cargo barges and junks on the coast and in inland waterways.

In South Vietnam, ground fighting continued on a small scale with the U.S. and South Vietnamese military commands reporting scattered, short engagements.

U.S. Marines, supported by air strikes and artillery barrages, reported killing 29 Communists in scattered fighting in the northern provinces, mostly southwest of Da Nang.

Units of the South Korean White Horse Division, operating 15 miles northwest of Nha Trang on the central coast, reported killing 27 Viet Cong during Operation White Horse One. The Koreans claim 183 enemy killed since the operation started Sunday.

In a new U.S. operation in War One D, units of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and 9th Infantry Division continued a sweep of the area 27 miles northeast of Saigon without meeting significant resistance.

5 Workers Missing In Gulf Oil Blaze

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Five workers were missing after a spectacular fire swept a drilling platform in the Gulf of Mexico about 35 miles southeast of Cameron, La., Friday night.

Boats waited for daylight to make a search of surrounding waters. Intense heat kept salvage crews off the platform during the night.

The U.S. command also reported that a Viet Cong demolition charge destroyed a building housing the headquarters and barracks of an American military police company at Phan Rang, on the South China sea coast about 170 miles east of Saigon. Long Wants New Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Russell B. Long of the Senate Finance Committee says the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board should be replaced with "some man whose background demonstrates that he has the interest of the little people of America at heart."

Long's call for the replacement of William McChesney Martin was one element of a multipronged Democratic attack against administration economic policies Friday. But there was also support for President Johnson from one of his frequent antagonists, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Long called Martin the "leader of the high interest rate group" on the Reserve Board. He said high interest and tight money policies pushed by Martin have damaged the "great majority of Americans."

In a Senate speech Long said Johnson "has steadfastly proclaimed himself an advocate of lower interest rates. The real test of the President's credibility has arrived."

Martin's term as board chairman expires March 31. His term as a member continues until 1970.

Morse said the tight money policy should be ended "before it does further damage to the economy." He added that Johnson's proposed tax increase "now appears to be moving in the direction of a more equitable sharing of our financial burdens."

Morse said the proposed 6 per cent surtax on most income taxes should be seriously considered after economic data for the first quarter of the year has been compiled.

Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., told Budget Director Charles L. Schultze at a Senate-House Economic Committee meeting that the tax proposal is "in grave danger this year."

Key Men Doubt Soviets Will Cooperate on Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key men in the U.S. space program say they would like to share its cost in a joint venture with the Soviet Union, but they doubt this will happen.

They were asked to comment on a London newspaper article this week by Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's Jodrell Bank radio telescope station. Lovell said space exploration was so complex and expensive it demanded global cooperation.

Lovell also said last week's Apollo disaster which killed three astronauts would lead to renewed questions about the U.S. moon landing program, including whether there should be a race with the Soviets to the moon.

Dr. Edward C. Welsh, President Johnson's principal space adviser, suggested that Lovell's all-nation approach to the lunar research program was "more idealistic than realistic."

"It is, of course, relatively easy for those who have not invested billions of dollars in a venture to criticize those who have," Welsh, executive secre-

4 Americans Released by East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—Four tired but jubilant Americans shouted "Freiheit! — freedom!" as they crossed into West Berlin Friday night after being released from prison in Communist East Germany.

They were Mary Helen Battle, 26, Oak Ridge, Tenn.; William W. Lovett, 26, San Francisco, Calif.; Moses Reese Herrin, 26, Akron, Ohio; and Frederick Matthews, 24, Ellwood City, Pa.

All had been imprisoned more than a year, but were released before their sentences were over. Lovett had been charged in connection with a traffic accident in Leipzig and the other three with attempting to aid East Germans escape to the West.

Officials in Washington said they knew of secret talks prior to the Americans' release, but that "no swap arrangement" was involved in this case.

Before talking with newsmen, the four were given a meal and had a short time to relax. Lovett had a pizza and the others steak and apple pie.

Miss Battle, arrested in November 1965 and sentenced last April to four years, appeared tired, but in good health. At times she spoke in German, saying, "I can't think anymore in English."

She said she was treated "like any other German prisoner" and had to perform manual labor and housework. Only two days ago she was informed when she would be released and said, "You can't believe my anticipation."

The tall, willowy ash blonde was a theology student at West Berlin's Free University when she was arrested for trying to help a young East German man to escape to West Berlin.

"I felt I was trapped into being arrested," she told news-

Capital Use School Set

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The commercial farm today requires a large capital investment in land, machinery, livestock and other production items. The increased use of capital in agriculture has created a need for greater skills in financial management.

Every farmer in the area is faced with investment decisions. Capital can be obtained for expanding the operation, through renting additional land, leasing of equipment, or borrowing funds for the construction of new buildings, land improvement, or expanding the total operation.

A Capital School for area farmers will be held Feb. 7 and 14, 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. at Noel's Restaurant on Route 23. All area farmers are invited to attend this school, which is being sponsored by the Area Extension office in cooperation with the County Extension Office. The purpose is to provide guidelines individual farmers can use in making investment decisions and planning the financial management of their farm.

Further information can be obtained from the Area Extension Center, 317 S. Fayette Street, Washington C. H., phone 535-2755, or the County Extension office, 137 W. Franklin St., phone 474-7534.

Greene County Temporary Jail Plans Approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Greene County can go ahead with its plans for establishing a temporary jail in a county building in Xenia pending completion of a new jail in about a year, the Ohio Board of Building Appeals said Friday.

However, no prisoners charged with felonies can be lodged in the temporary quarters, where dormitory type quarters will be erected at a cost of about $30,000. These must be "boarded out" to jails in other counties.

Inspectors for the Department of Industrial Relations had previously banned use of temporary quarters, but this decision was reversed by the Board of Building Appeals, on an appeal by Greene County commissioners. They said it would cost $70,000 to house prisoners in jails in other counties during the period of the new jail construction.

New Leaflet On Weevils Is Available

A new leaflet, published by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, can help farmers decide whether to plant alfalfa and risk a weevil infestation, or plant alternate crops.

The leaflet, "Alfalfa and Alfalfa Weevil," was written by George R. Gist, Extension agronomist; B. D. Blair, Extension entomologist; John R. Staubus, Extension dairy nutrition specialist; Walter G. Harter, Extension economist; and H. D. Niemczyk, research entomologist at The Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

Included in the publication is a nutritional comparison chart for alfalfa and several alternate crops, a table of costs and returns of forage crop production, and a section on control recommendations for the alfalfa weevil through 1969.

Specialists predict that farmers in all counties can expect severe damage by 1969, unless they take adequate control measures.

The leaflet warns that there is no good substitute for alfalfa in the forage crop programs on most Ohio farms. According to the publication: "Control of the alfalfa weevil is difficult, but in almost all cases, weevil control is less costly than the production of alternate crops."

The leaflet is available at the Pickaway County Extension Office, 137 W. Franklin St.

Ohio Wool Growers Assn. To Observe Anniversary

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Can you imagine a pile of wool 150 million pounds in size? This would roughly represent the amount of wool marketed for Ohio farmers through their own marketing agency during the past 50 years. The Ohio Wool Growers Assn. is celebrating its Golden Anniversary at the organization's annual meeting to be held Wednesday, Feb. 15, in Columbus at the Beasley-Deshler Hotel.

After a half-century of continuous service to Ohio sheepmen, John Dowler of Ashville, a director of the association, reports that elaborate plans are under way to celebrate a successful past and to challenge members for an even more impressive future.

Dowler further states that three national agricultural leaders will highlight the program. There will be various wool exhibits along with a live exhibit of sheep in the hotel lobby.

FEATURED speakers in the afternoon are Roy Battles, director of Clean Channel Broadcasting Service of Washington, D. C., and John Hickman, executive secretary of the American Sheep Producers Council of Denver, Colo.

After an evening banquet, featuring delicious lamb, members and their wives will enjoy a live-model, all-wool style show. They will also see M. E. Sennebrenner, Mayor of Columbus present "Miss Wool of Ohio," who is also "Miss Columbus, U. S. A."

Dr. Roy M. Kottman, dean of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, will act as the toastmaster at the evening banquet session.

THE KEYNOTE of the evening will be one of the most outstanding cooperative and agricultural leaders of the United States, D. W. Brooks, manager of the Cotton Producers Assn., from Atlanta, Ga. The topic of his message will be "Accepting the Challenge of Tomorrow."

Even though the association has had a very successful 50-year history, the directors in planning the Golden Anniversary program have continually

Economic Report Dooms Improved Farm Prices

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Largely overlooked in the economic report President Johnson sent to Congress last week was a statement that seems to doom hopes of farm leaders for government actions to raise farm product prices as a whole.

This statement, written by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said:

"Given adequate time for the adjustment of production, America's farmers are capable of expanding total farm output to meet any foreseeable expansion of domestic demand and to provide substantial surpluses for export, in most instances at essentially constant costs."

Farm leaders who have been decrying present farm prices and what they call the lack of proper government production incentives, interpreted these words as meaning that the administration sees no need for higher farm prices for most farm products and will certainly take no action to increase them.

President Tony T. Dechant of the National Farmers Union has been calling for increased government incentives for many months. He told a news conference here recently that farmers should not be called upon to "subsidize the nation's foreign policy" of using American food to aid and stabilize needy areas.

He referred to the policy of providing large amounts of grain to such areas at grower prices far below price goals of farm programs.

Some other farm groups have been critical of present government farm price policies. They include the National Grange, the National Farmers organization association. All, including the Farmers Union, have been friendly toward the present administration.

But this criticism of the farm price situation is not being limited to these farm groups. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, in several recent speeches, has said that farmers' income "lags far behind of other Americans." He said that farmers bitterly resent this.

Yet, there are no indications that Freeman plans to do anything about this situation beyond what his agency already is doing to support prices and income. Farm organization leaders usually friendly with the administration are not criticizing him. They are convinced his hands are tied by White House policies.

Farm product prices have declined 6.2 per cent since a peak

Foul Air May Destroy Race By 2064

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A meteorologist warns that air pollution could wipe out mankind by the year 2064.

Dr. Morris Neiburger of the University of California said Thursday "pollution is not only a national problem but has become international in scope."

"What will happen," he asked, "if the 800 million Chinese decide in the near future they all want to drive cars and what's more, are able to do it?"

He said that polluted air from the United States is "cleaned up" as it circles the globe.

"But if air is to receive pollutants everywhere it travels," Neiburger said, "it will soon intensify the problem."

emphasized the importance of stressing a forward looking objective to build a stronger organization and give even better service in the future.

Many wool growers and their wives, from all over the state, will be attending this special Anniversary of the Ohio Wool Growers.

More information may be obtained by contacting Dowler or the County Agricultural Extension office.

Home Agent Tips

By Marjorie Kaiser
Home Economics Agent

Christmas may be over, but that does not mean servicemen and college students far from home will not still appreciate those special packages of home-made foods. If these baked foods are to arrive in good eating condition, however, they will need careful packaging and mailing attention.

Choose a food that travels well. Delicate, tender cookies are apt to crumble with rough handling in the mail. Very moist breads or cakes may develop mold quickly.

Frosting tends to become dry and brittle, so foods should be mailed unfrosted unless they are going to a nearby location or via air mail. Most nut breads are not good choices for mailing to tropical countries. Baked foods that will travel well include bar and fruit cookies and brownies.

A metal container, such as a two or three-pound coffee can, is an excellent mailing package. It holds up better if dropped and keeps the foods fresh and moist. It is particularly important to use metal containers for food sent to distant overseas points or tropical countries. If mailing a large quantity or variety of foods to one address, use several small cans or boxes. Packages under five pounds will generally arrive in better condition and more quickly, too.

Your baked foods will need some "cushioning" for protection. Use excelsior, shredded paper, paper napkins, waxed paper or paper towels. Don't use unbuttered popcorn! Popcorn will absorb odors and could then cause illness if eaten.

The winter months with their frequent hazards of ice and snow seem to produce a bumper crop of broken bones for young and old alike. If someone in your family is making his sole flight on crutches, he may be finding that actually walking with them is far more difficult than it looks. One of the most scary experiences for someone accustomed to the sturdiness of two sound legs is any sudden, unexpected slip of the crutch on a smooth surface.

A leading Connecticut orthopedic specialist takes this into account when giving instructions to his patients. This doctor insists that the rubber tips of their crutches must be washed at least once a day to remove lint and floor wax. He explains that the crutch tips must be thoroughly scrubbed with warm soap or detergent suds, then rinsed and wiped dry. This is vital because any foreign matter breaks the suction or "seal" surface. In other words, only clean rubber can get a maximum grip of floors and other surfaces to give the invalid secure safety by preventing dangerous slips which are likely to occur otherwise.

So if there is an accident victim or convalescent in your home, increase his margin of safety by washing his crutch tips clean at least once a day. Incidentally, this precaution also applies to cane tips.

Don't forget the countywide program on "The Dress Form — My Invaluable Partner", 1:30 p. m. Monday at the 4-H and Grange Building.

All interested homemakers are welcome.

A new leaflet, published by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, can help farmers decide whether to plant alfalfa and risk a weevil infestation, or plant alternate crops.

The leaflet, "Alfalfa and Alfalfa Weevil," was written by George R. Gist, Extension agronomist; B. D. Blair, Extension entomologist; John R. Staubus, Extension dairy nutrition specialist; Walter G. Harter, Extension economist; and H. D. Niemczyk, research entomologist at The Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

Included in the publication is a nutritional comparison chart for alfalfa and several alternate crops, a table of costs and returns of forage crop production, and a section on control recommendations for the alfalfa weevil. Another feature is a map of Ohio showing predicted economic damage by the alfalfa weevil through 1969.

Specialists predict that farmers in all counties can expect severe damage by 1969, unless they take adequate control measures.

The leaflet warns that there is no good substitute for alfalfa in the forage crop programs on most Ohio farms. According to the publication: "Control of the alfalfa weevil is difficult, but in almost all cases, weevil control is less costly than the production of alternate crops."

The leaflet is available at the Pickaway County Extension Office, 137 W. Franklin St.

Ohio Wool Growers Assn. To Observe Anniversary

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Can you imagine a pile of wool 150 million pounds in size?

This would roughly represent the amount of wool marketed for Ohio farmers through their own marketing agency during the past 50 years. The Ohio Wool Growers Assn. is celebrating its Golden Anniversary at the organization's annual meeting to be held Wednesday, Feb. 15, in Columbus at the Beasley-Deshler Hotel.

After a half-century of continuous service to Ohio sheepmen, John Dowler of Ashville, a director of the association, reports that elaborate plans are under way to celebrate a successful past and to challenge members for an even more impressive future.

Dowler further states that three national agricultural leaders will highlight the program. There will be various wool exhibits along with a live exhibit of sheep in the hotel lobby.

FEATURED speakers in the afternoon are Roy Battles, director of Clean Channel Broadcasting Service of Washington, D. C., and John Hickman, executive secretary of the American Sheep Producers Council of Denver, Colo.

After an evening banquet, featuring delicious lamb, members and their wives will enjoy a live-model, all-wool style show. They will also see M. E. Sennebrenner, Mayor of Columbus present "Miss Wool of Ohio," who is also "Miss Columbus, U. S. A."

Dr. Roy M. Kottman, dean of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, will act as the toastmaster at the evening banquet session.

THE KEYNOTER of the evening will be one of the most outstanding cooperative and agricultural leaders of the United States, D. W. Brooks, manager of the Cotton Producers Assn., from Atlanta, Ga. The topic of his message will be "Accepting the Challenge of Tomorrow."

Even though the association has had a very successful 50-year history, the directors in planning the Golden Anniversary program have continually

Economic Report Dooms Improved Farm Prices

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Largely overlooked in the economic report President Johnson sent to Congress last week was a statement that seems to doom hopes of farm leaders for government actions to raise farm product prices as a whole.

This statement, written by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said:

"Given adequate time for the adjustment of production, America's farmers are capable of expanding total farm output to meet any foreseeable expansion of domestic demand and to provide substantial surpluses for export, in most instances at essentially constant costs."

Farm leaders who have been decrying present farm prices and what they call the lack of proper government production incentives, interpreted these words as meaning that the administration sees no need for higher farm prices for most farm products and will certainly take no action to increase them.

President Tony T. Dechant of the National Farmers Union has been calling for increased government incentives for many months. He told a news conference here recently that farmers should not be called upon to "subsidize the nation's foreign policy" of using American food to aid and stabilize needy areas.

He referred to the policy of providing large amounts of grain to such areas at grower prices far below price goals of farm programs.

Some other farm groups have been critical of present government farm price policies. They include the National Grange, the National Farmers organization association. All, including the Farmers Union, have been friendly toward the present administration.

But this criticism of the farm price situation is not being limited to these farm groups. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, in several recent speeches, has said that farmers' income "lags far behind of other Americans." He said that farmers bitterly resent this.

Yet, there are no indications that Freeman plans to do anything about this situation beyond what his agency already is doing to support prices and income. Farm organization leaders usually friendly with the administration are not criticizing him. They are convinced his hands are tied by White House policies.

Farm product prices have declined 6.2 per cent since a peak

Foul Air May Destroy Race By 2064

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A meteorologist warns that air pollution could wipe out mankind by the year 2064.

Dr. Morris Neiburger of the University of California said Thursday "pollution is not only a national problem but has become international in scope."

"I've called for an all-out effort to have international pollution treaties."

"What will happen," he asked, "if the 800 million Chinese decide in the near future they all want to drive cars and what's more, are able to do it?"

He said that polluted air from the United States is "cleaned up" as it circles the globe.

"But if air is to receive pollutants everywhere it travels," Neiburger said, "it will soon intensify the problem."

emphasized the importance of stressing a forward looking objective to build a stronger organization and give even better service in the future.

Many wool growers and their wives, from all over the state, will be attending this special Anniversary of the Ohio Wool Growers.

More information may be obtained by contacting Dowler or the County Agricultural Extension office.

MEET THE BRAVES — These three juniors are playing their first year of varsity basketball at Logan Elm. They are, from the left: Mike Helwagen, Mike McFadden and Eddie Young. Helwagen, a quick guard, lives at Route 4 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Helwagen. McFadden, a forward, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. McFadden, Route 1, Laurelville. Young, another forward, lives in Tarlton with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Young.

Journalism Workshop Is Conducted

By RICHARD CREE

The Quill and Scroll sponsored a journalism workshop Monday for interested Elm Log and Skanda staff members.

Steve Jones of The Circleville Herald discussed writing sports news. Rex Johnson, Taylor Publishing Co., talked on yearbook problems. Bob Lands taught participants how to use the school camera, and Miss Alice DeLong spoke on accuracy and rules for typing copy.

At the 4:45 session Jones discussed headlines, leads and feature stories. Rex Johnson, Taylor Publishing Co., repeated his discussion on yearbook problems, and Pat Pontius lectured and demonstrated mimeographing and using stencils.

A snack supper was enjoyed at 5:30 and Quill and Scroll members discussed problems with the participants.

Ensemble Performs at Westerville

By VALERIE MAY

The Otterbein Chapter of Westerville's Eastern Star was host to Logan Elm's Boys Ensemble last Saturday evening.

Arranging the performance for the boys was Jerry Raser, who through past TV performances on his Dance Party and as MC of LE's annual talent show, has become acquainted with the polished quality of the ensemble voices.

The boys chose three numbers to sing for the banquet: "Man of LaMancha," "You'll Never Walk Alone," and a traditional Negro Spiritual, "Ride the Chariot," which the boys plan to do at contest this year. Mike Helwagen and Tom Smith are the soloists for the latter number.

Robert Petty, music director of the school, remarked that "The whole performance was exceptional and the applause was warm and spontaneous."

After the performance the boys were treated to sandwiches, pretzels and pop at the home of Mr. Petty's parents.

Cree Is Entered In Quiz Event

By LORNA POLING

Richard Cree, a junior will be Logan Elm's participant in the Current Events Quiz for 1967 sponsored by Quill and Scroll.

Cree earned the honor in competition with eight other Logan Elm students on Jan. 25. His score has been entered in the national contest where the winner will receive a $500 scholarship.

Dr. Simmons Due For Visit at LE

The Logan Elm Choir, along with director Robert A. Petty, will host Dr. Donald Simmons on Feb. 9 from 8:30 to 10 a.m.

Dr. Simmons, director of the Ohio State University Women's Glee Club, will visit Logan Elm to listen to contest numbers presented by the choir, the Boy's Octet, the Girl's Ensemble and several soloists.

The contest for the soloists and ensembles will be held Feb.

TODAY In History

Today is Saturday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1967. There are 330 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1861, a convention of six Southern states opened at Montgomery, Ala., to organize the government of the Confederate States of America.

On this date:

In 1783, hostilities ended between the United States and England.

In 1789, George Washington was elected to be the first president of the United States.

In 1941, the USO was established.

In 1944, Adm. Chester Nimitz was made military governor of the Marshall Islands in the Pacific.

Ten years ago—A gas explosion in a coal mine in Bishop, Va., took the lives of 37 miners.

Five years ago—The Population Reference Bureau, a private research agency, estimated 77 billion persons had lived on the earth since the dawn of mankind.

One year ago — President Johnson announced he was going to fly to Hawaii for a conference with South Vietnamese government leaders and American military and diplomatic representatives stationed in Vietnam.

Shows Them Way Home

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP) — Douglas Lawrence, a local taxi owner, has started a special service to take drunk drivers home.

For the ordinary taxi fare plus 7 shillings and 6 pence ($1.05) the drunk driver is driven home while another driver takes his car home and garages it.

This experiment had gone on for some weeks and is highly successful, Lawrence said.

The drunks taken home agreed the dollar charge was cheap compared with a possible fine in court, Lawrence said.

Time for Mixed Emotions

By DEBBIE ANKROM

Click, click, click! My footsteps echo in the deserted, cold halls. Grey light, early because of winter, steals the warmth from the walls and drains all colors to match its greyness.

As I wait to go home, a loneliness strikes me. Graduation seems only days away. Soon I will have no reason to stay after school.

The choir will sing as well without me. Our team will win or lose and I may not even raise my voice.

These thoughts sadden me greatly. I begin to realize the small world I am so familiar with will fall away and I may never feel this closeness and warmth again.

Panic and futility cross my mind. It's like looking at the sky and realizing how insignificant one person is or trying to accept the timelessness of eternity.

A last beam from the setting sun pierces the oncoming greyness. Small patches of the hall are gilded and illuminated. I realize the life I lead after high school can not be faced with uncertainty or fear. There are probably many warm patches in life, just as there are in this hall, if only one will search for them.

Tomorrow I will pass through these same halls, laughing and learning with my classmates. We will come in late for class, pass senior pictures and worry about college entrance exams.

This is part of being a senior. Another big part is the mixed emotions of ending and beginning — all at the same time.

Four Pickaway County dairymen were given certificates of achievement by the Ohio Dairyman's Assn. during a recent annual meeting of the Pickaway County Dairy Improvement Assn.

The Robert Barnes Holstein herd, Route 1, Williamsport, was recognized with the highest production. The Barnes' 41-cow herd produced an average of 15,505 pounds of milk and 561 pounds of fat.

The Hines and Schneider herd of Walnut Twp. had a production record of 13,714 pounds of milk and 543 pounds of fat. Reuben Jones' Holstein herd in Washington Twp. had 13,447 pounds of milk and 515 pounds of fat and the Jack Rogers herd of Monroe Township produced 13,083 pounds of milk and 514 pounds of fat.

The Ohio Dairyman's Association recognizes those herds with over 500 pounds of fat average.

Other action during the annual meeting included the election of directors from five townships. Named were: Deercreek Twp., John Wardell; Monroe Twp., Robert Barnes; Scioto Twp., Bernard Ball; Perry Twp., Larry Wolford; and Washington Twp., David Bolender.

Powell's Theme Is Financial

Adam Clayton Powell has joined the groups, the swingers, the rockers and the rollers who hope to sell a million records. Although Powell is an ordained minister, the theme of his sermon, "Keep the Faith, Baby," is more financial than spiritual.

It goes something like, "It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that green." And it just so happens Powell could use a little extra green — about $165,000 worth — to settle a defamation judgment against him.

Brain Is Complex

No matter how much is spent on a man's thoughts, it is unlikely that scientists will ever be able to read his mind. The brain is simply too complex, says Dr. Seymour Kety, chief of the clinical science laboratory at the National Institute of Mental Health.

The secrets of cancer are slowly but definitely yielding to pressures of science and research from laboratories all over the world.

Up to the time that cancer can be prevented, hope lies in the earliest detection of it. When a cancer is found early and treated vigorously the chances are great for its control and cure.

A new test has been reported by Dr. Barbara J. Johnston of the St. Luke's Hospital in New York City. A few drops of blood taken from the fingertip has been found to show changes in the white blood cells that seem to indicate the presence of cancer somewhere in the body.

Dr. Johnston and her colleagues, all women, have performed this test on many hundreds of patients with a remarkable degree of success. Other scientists at a medical meeting greeted this study with great enthusiasm because of the accuracy with which it showed the presence of cancer.

It must be emphasized that the test does not show where the cancer is, but it does spark a complete examination to locate it.

There is an additional advantage of this test for doctors who are carefully observing any condition which they suspect has a cancerous tendency.

This test, like all others that are as spectacular and encouraging, will be studied by doctors all over the country to confirm its reliability. It is hoped that if the test becomes conclusive doctors will be trained to include this blood test in every general examination.

Smoking and exercise were carefully studied in 100,000 men and women for one and a half years to learn more about heart attacks.

The Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York undertook this study of coronary heart disease to learn if exercise can possibly counterbalance the bad effect of tobacco on the heart.

There is now undeniable evidence that cigarette smoking causes narrowing of the blood vessels that lead to the heart muscle.

There is also evidence that exercise has beneficial effects on people in all walks of life. When exercise is regulated without excess strain the heart muscle benefits by an increased flow of blood to the heart.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some former members of the Kennedy administration are busy these days as directors of a mutual fund that seeks to sell foreigners on the profit potential of owning a bit of America.

Among them are Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary; Charles U. Daly and Richard K. Donahue, former staff assistants; William Mahoney Jr., a former ambassador; and Ivan Nestingen and John Stillman, once sub-Cabinet officers.

For tax purposes, and in order to offer customers accounts, designated by numbers rather than names, the fund operates from the Bahamas, where there are no income, sales or inheritance taxes, and where American taxes cannot apply.

Although perfectly legal, the fund may be criticized by nations which cannot afford to have capital drained abroad. Criticism may develop also over the numbered accounts. Sometimes such accounts are the repository of illegally obtained funds.

The officers contend, however, that this money would find its way abroad anyway and that some of it already is invested outside the country of origin. They add that numbered accounts will be limited to 5 per cent of the total and that the directors will check background of those seeking them.

Operators of the fund also say that it will bring a flow of gold back to the United States, thus helping ease pressure on the dollar.

Few of the directors have had any previous direct involvement in mutual funds.

Donahue is vice president of the fund's management company. His firm is also legal adviser. Barish is secretary-treasurer.

The fund leaves little doubt in an investor's mind that he is buying something American. Its deep blue circular insignia is centered with an eagle on the chest of which is bannered a red and white shield.

The real estate portfolio invests 70 per cent of its money directly in American real estate, the remainder in real estate securities. Investors in the mutual fund portfolio have their money reinvested in 10 other mutual funds.

The common stock portfolio is promoted as according foreign investors the chance to acquire "a financial interest in the shares of many of America's best-known companies."

The directors, all of whom are stockholders, receive a $1,000 annual fee. The officers take no pay, as yet, but could become wealthy merely from fund growth and commissions.

The additional important finding is that people who are not active and who never exercise and smoked cigarettes were nine times greater candidates for a fatal heart attack.

Let me repeat this in another way. Physically active people who were non-smokers had fewer heart attacks. Physically active people who smoked had fewer heart attacks than people who smoked and were inactive.

Well regulated exercise prescribed by the physician and no cigarette smoking can add years of healthy life to hearts.

Among them are Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary; Charles U. Daly and Richard K. Donahue, former staff assistants; William Mahoney Jr., a former ambassador; and Ivan Nestingen and John Stillman, once sub-Cabinet officers.

For tax purposes, and in order to offer customers accounts, designated by numbers rather than names, the fund operates from the Bahamas, where there are no income, sales or inheritance taxes, and where American taxes cannot apply.

Although perfectly legal, the fund may be criticized by nations which cannot afford to have capital drained abroad. Criticism may develop also over the numbered accounts. Sometimes such accounts are the repository of illegally obtained funds.

The officers contend, however, that this money would find its way abroad anyway and that some of it already is invested outside the country of origin. They add that numbered accounts will be limited to 5 per cent of the total and that the directors will check background of those seeking them.

Operators of the fund also say that it will bring a flow of gold back to the United States, thus helping ease pressure on the dollar.

Few of the directors have had any previous direct involvement in mutual funds.

Donahue, now a Lowell, Mass., lawyer, and Keith Barish, a young Miami, Fla., investor, returned recently from Latin America, where they began building a sales force of natives and businessmen already based there. Next trip is to the Middle East.

Donahue is vice president of the fund's management company. His firm is also legal adviser. Barish is secretary-treasurer.

The fund leaves little doubt in an investor's mind that he is buying something American. Its deep blue circular insignia is centered with an eagle on the chest of which is bannered a red and white shield.

The real estate portfolio invests 70 per cent of its money directly in American real estate, the remainder in real estate securities. Investors in the mutual fund portfolio have their money reinvested in 10 other mutual funds.

The common stock portfolio is promoted as according foreign investors the chance to acquire "a financial interest in the shares of many of America's best-known companies."

The directors, all of whom are stockholders, receive a $1,000 annual fee. The officers take no pay, as yet, but could become wealthy merely from fund growth and commissions.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

The brothers refused to give names for fear of reprisals against their family in Cuba.

Rural Development Unit Set For Initial Workshop Meet

The Pickaway County Rural Development Corp. will conduct its first workshop session Monday at the Community House in Atlanta.

The meeting, which starts at 8 p. m., has been opened to zoning commissions and trustees of the 10 Pickaway County townships that do not already have zoning laws. Several organizational meetings were conducted earlier by the newly formed development corporation.

Townships which already have accepted zoning regulations are Circleville, Walnut, Madison, Harrison and Scioto. Those without are Jackson, Deer Creek, Monroe, Darby, Muhlenberg, Perry, Pickaway, Salt Creek, Washington and Wayne.

According to corporation spokesmen, the workshop objective will be to get started on drawing up resolutions and maps on an individual township basis.

DR. JOHN B. MITCHELL of Ohio State University will serve as instructor for the workshop. He will be assisted by George Hamrick, local Extension agent; Don Archer, local conservationist; and Roy Huffer, attorney for the corporation.

Zoning on a countywide scale also will be discussed. Previous comments by the Pickaway Board of Commissioners indicated that it is unlikely money will be appropriated for an overall county program until the county is completely zoned on the township level.

Chief Trust Buster Can Become Dead Serious Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald F. Turner, the government's chief trust buster, can joke about an opponent but he's dead serious that "substantial competitors can't merge."

Turner glanced at a set of pictures in an outer office showing his predecessors as chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division. One had been reversed to face the wall.

"That's our little joke for the day," he said. "The picture was of Lee Loevinger, now a Federal Communications Commissioner and currently a Turner adversary in the world of financial marriages."

Turner is a slightly greying, somewhat balding man who looks like the prototype of a New England college professor. But he's a long way from the Harvard University classroom where he once taught antitrust law.

Take this week for example: He induced the FCC — including Loevinger — to reconsider its approval of the merger of International Telephone Telegraph Corp. and American Broadcasting Companies Inc.

Confirmed he is looking into the computer industry, 75 per cent controlled by International Business Machines Corp.

Said the department is also checking on the nuclear power industry.

Turner's touch also is being felt in the banking industry.

The Comptroller of the Currency's office maintains that the Justice Department is trying to substitute its views for the comptroller's expertise in banking matters.

FCC Commissioner James J. Wadsworth said Wednesday that the department is trying to substitute its judgement for the "expert judgement" of the FCC.

But Turner has a one sentence rule that generally governs the department's attitude toward business mergers: "Substantial competitors can't merge."

He does not believe antitrust law should block natural economic development, but said, "I do believe in using it very strongly (so) that concentration and large size do not go beyond the bounds of what is absolutely necessary."

Turner, 45, said he's "got the best job in the government," but added quickly that he intends some day to return to teaching. "I can't imagine it (assistant attorney general) a permanent career."

Already this native of Chippewa Falls, Wis., has studied at Northwestern, Harvard and Yale served as a naval officer in the South Pacific during World War II and worked for a year as law clerk to Justice Tom C. Clark of the Supreme Court. He married in 1955 and has two children.

Not as Bad As He Seemed To Believe

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Robert Amos Cosby, 48, a plumber with troubles, parked his old pickup truck in front of the Indianapolis City-County Building and began throwing rocks through two plate-glass windows.

In Municipal Court, Cosby explained his fury at society:

He and his wife have 11 children, one of them a 5-year-old boy crippled by cerebral palsy.

They moved to Indianapolis from Madison, Ind., last June on an offer of a job with a plumbing and heating firm. Business declined and Cosby was laid off.

They were evicted from their house and had to move into another with only three rooms. Cosby found a few part-time jobs but nothing permanent.

A Legal Aid Society attorney entered a guilty plea for Cosby Thursday — and then things began to look up.

The society got two job offers for him. The Urban League found him a bigger house. Judge John Christ suspended a $50 fine and a six-month sentence on the malicious trespass charge.

"You're a lucky man to have so many people come to your aid," said the judge. "Now go home and take care of your kids."

Cosby blinked and hurried out without saying a word.

Firm Sues Paper for JFK Story

NEW YORK (AP) — Look magazine is suing the New York World Journal Tribune, alleging that the newspaper violated an embargo on material from Look's serialization of the book, "The Death of a President."

The $700,000 suit, filed Thursday in federal district court here, was the third brought by Look against publications since the magazine began its serialization of author William Manchester's book last Jan. 10.

The suit, which was joined by Manchester, claimed that the newspaper published material from Look's second installment seven hours before release time and also went beyond the press-release limits of 300 words of direct quotation in the editions of Jan. 23. The suit said use of the material amounted to "willful infringement" of the copyright.

Herbert Kamm, executive editor of the World Journal Tribune, said Thursday: "We are not aware that the World Journal Tribune violated any embargo or any other limitation on the publication of the material in Look."

Evangelistic Services Slated

Special evangelistic services will begin Sunday at the Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union.

These services will continue through Feb. 12. They will begin each evening at 7:30. The two Sunday services will begin at 10:30 a. m.

Rev. Don Humble, Piketon, is the engaged evangelist for these meetings. There will also be special music and singing throughout the revival.

Rev. Allen Gallimore, pastor of the church, has extended a public invitation for these services. The church is located on the Circleville Tarlton Road, just off Route 23.

No Wiretapping Problem about Loud-Mouth Wife

LONDON (AP) — Justice Sir Neville Faulks granted Francis Ford a divorce on grounds of cruelty Thursday after hearing a 90-minute tape recording of Ford's wife talking. "To describe her nagging as being like water dripping on a stone would savor of modesty," commented Justice Faulks.

The court was told Ford, 51, put his wife's "torrent of words" on tape in a vain effort to shame her into silence.

In all the 90 minutes Ford uttered no more than 10 consecutive words, the judge said.

"Perhaps the most touching part of the whole tape recording was where the wife was ranting away about how she had taken the pledge not to drink," the judge said.

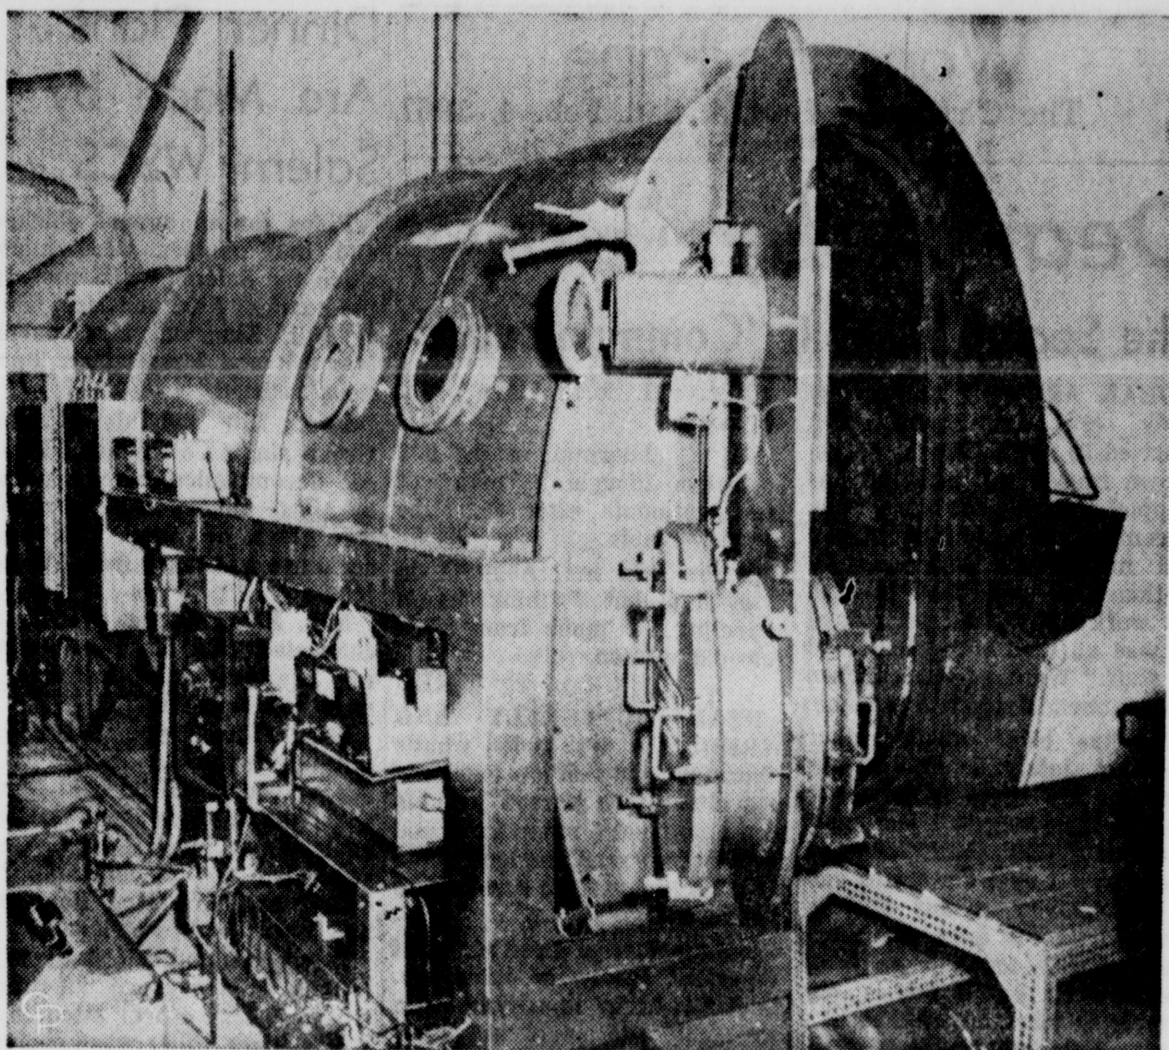

"A still, small voice was heard saying: 'I wish you had taken the pledge not to talk.'"

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, using a news conference to make a major appeal for peace in Vietnam, admitted frustrations nine times but the irony in what he said is that he said it all before.

This time he simply pulled a bunch of the pieces together, dipping all the way back into 1965, and presented them in one big bundle to a listening world with the obvious intent of showing his earnest desire for a settlement.

He was clearly answering the critics of American foreign policy and probably had no effect on them since nothing he has said along the same lines before did.

Nine times, in one form or another, Johnson said, "In all candor, I must say that I am not aware of any serious effort that the other side has made, in my judgment, to bring the fighting to a stop and to stop the war."

After his Honolulu conference last February with South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Johnson and Ky in their communique said they "noted with regret the total absence of a present interest in peace" by North Vietnam.

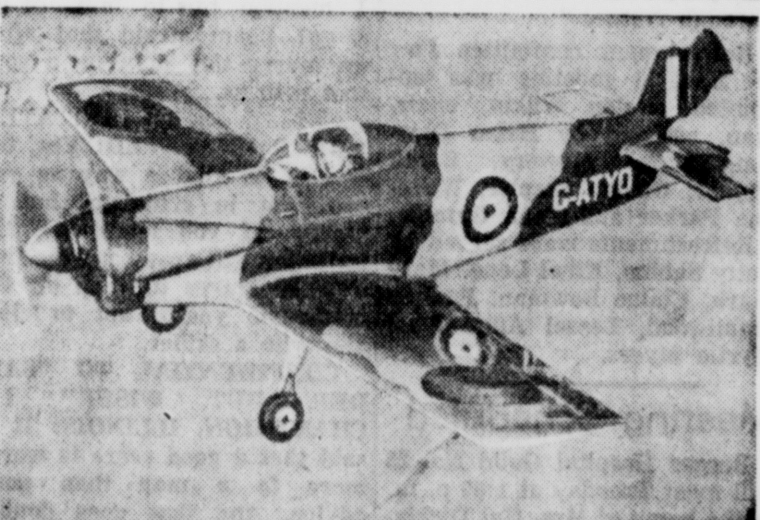

Thus, through repetition, Johnson attempted to show the consistency of the American position in wishing peace while being ignored by the Communists.

There was nothing off-the-cuff about Johnson's performance. Vietnam had been high in the news for days, with speculation that the North Vietnamese were beginning to throw out hints they wanted to discuss an end to the fighting.

The President came prepared against any slip of the tongue. He had a loose-leaf book with notes in front of him and glanced at them constantly as he gave his lengthy answers to short questions.

The news conference lasted nearly 30 minutes and almost all of it was taken up with questions about Vietnam. Under ordinary circumstances Johnson could have said all he had to say in about three of those minutes.

The fact that he took up all the time he did is pretty good evidence that he wanted to make Thursday's appearance

There was nothing off-the-cuff about Johnson's performance. Vietnam had been high in the news for days, with speculation that the North Vietnamese were beginning to throw out hints they wanted to discuss an end to the fighting.

The President came prepared against any slip of the tongue. He had a loose-leaf book with notes in front of him and glanced at them constantly as he gave his lengthy answers to short questions.

The news conference lasted nearly 30 minutes and almost all of it was taken up with questions about Vietnam. Under ordinary circumstances Johnson could have said all he had to say in about three of those minutes.

The fact that he took up all the time he did is pretty good evidence that he wanted to make Thursday's appearance

Dear Abby:

The Secret Word Is 'Communication'

DEAR ABBY: I am in my early 40's and have been married 20 years. For some unknown reason my husband has stopped treating me as a wife. Recently when I told him I had missed his love and attentions he said that he had his work and I had mine, and he was all thru with "that kind of stuff." We have two children away at school and two at home.

He has been acting rather peculiar lately. I am 99 per cent certain there is no other woman involved yet I just can't understand his indifference. I keep myself neat and clean and I always bow to his wishes. I would like to keep my marriage intact for the sake of the children, but if this is any sample of what life will be like after all the children are gone, it won't be worth living.

Dinner Plans Are Made by Salem WSCS

Plans for an annual chicken and ham supper were made when the Salem WSCS met in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hill, Kingston. Mrs. Jacob Maxwell and Mrs. Wilbur Pontious assisted.

Mrs. Hill led devotionals. Group singing of hymns followed, accompanied at the piano by Miss Connie Hill. Prayer was given by Rev. Hill and scripture was taken from Psalm 139.

Mrs. Fairy Alkire, president, conducted the business meeting. It was reported that 16 sick calls had been made.

Mrs. Alkire appointed committees for the chicken and ham supper which will be held April 1 at the Fairgrounds. Ticket chairman is Mrs. Gene Kerns. Chairman and co-chairman of dinner are Mrs. Ned Boldoser and Mrs. Gerald Patrick.

Day apart and self study will be held at the April meeting, with a district officer attending.

Mrs. Vera Miller was appointed to the Commission on Education. Mrs. Ira Barr was elected secretary. Miss Connie Hill, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Willard McCarty is the new treasurer and Mrs. Richard Hillendbrand, assistant.

Plans were discussed concerning serving a farm sale dinner, Feb. 16, at Robert Jones', Route 1.

Mrs. Donald Adams won the flower fund gift.

Refreshments were served to 24 members and four guests. The tables were decorated around the Valentine theme.

Half-Hour Shows Apparently Don't Pay

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is more to the cancellation of a television series than an anemic rating. Economics can also play a crucial factor, as in the case of "Green Hornet."

The major film studios, which now produce the bulk of television series, are becoming more and more alarmed at the rising cost of putting a show on the air. Recently Darryl F. Zanuck, president of the biggest series maker, 20th Century-Fox, told me he was considering cutting down the number of shows made by the studio.

"We were making so many series we had to rent space at other studios," he explained. "When you do that, your possibility of profit becomes precarious."

Even with a hit, he added, the studio loses money on the first year's product. The second or third year could produce a profit. But some series never pay off until they go into reruns.

One of the Fox series is "Green Hornet," which can be classed as an iffy show. It has

WSCS Hears Talk Presented By Mrs. Beu

Mrs. Marjorie Beu was guest speaker at the carry-in luncheon held by the WSCS of First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Beu, director of the Goodwill Industries in the Chillicothe area, was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Southward, president. After explaining briefly how the Goodwill Industries were founded and the need for such private, non-profit organizations to overlap the government programs, Mrs. Beu presented a slide program depicting the ways in which Goodwill helps people to help themselves.

A question and answer period followed the slide showing.

Mrs. Southward presided over a brief business meeting. She announced that the WSCS would sponsor a luncheon for students of the Brookes-Yates School on Mar. 17.

Mrs. Doris Moats was in charge of the devotional period.

Carl Zehner To Address Mother's Club

Carl Zehner, son of Pastor and Mrs. Carl Zehner of E. Mount St., will present the program when the Capital University Mother's Club hold their February meeting Friday in Troutman Hall, Columbus.

Zehner's subject will be "Fabulous Phonograph."

Devotions will be led by Mrs. Carl Wristen. Hospitality chairmen will be Mrs. Raymond Rice and Mrs. Floyd Cullam. Social chairmen will be, Mrs. John Sheridan, Mrs. William Moler, Mrs. Gene Taylor and Mrs. W. E. Hoare.

FOE Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The FOE No. 685, Ladies Auxiliary, met Thursday evening in the Aerie home for a regular meeting. Madam president Inez Tucker presided.

The Auxiliary made plans for a bake sale to be held Mar. 4. The next meeting will be Feb. 16 at 8 p. m. Following the meeting a carry-in dinner and games will be held. All Ladies Auxiliaries are invited to attend.

received fair ratings, but star Van Williams figures it will return next season only if the economics can be solved.

"Bill Dozier, our producer, has been trying to sell ABC and the sponsors on the idea of going to an hour show next season. It would make sense from the actors' standpoint. One of the problems with the show was that the network wanted half of it to be action. It meant dragging in action for action's sake, and that was lousy. We were left with only 12 or 13 minutes of dialogue, and that wasn't enough to establish any of the characters or develop the plot," Williams said.

"But most important of all, a half-hour show is almost impossible to do on an economic basis. Our show is budgeted at $110,000, and I don't think we've met that mark in more than two or three of the 26 shows. I understand the loss to the company has been a million and a half dollars, some of which will be recovered on reruns.

"Converting to an hour show would mean an outlay of only $25,000 more, which would make it a much better investment. I understand Fox is trying to convert all its half-hour shows into hours."

Courages Models Look More Like Women This Year

PARIS (AP) — Courages brought out skirts three inches above the knee in his spring and summer collection Friday, and added knee-high striped socks with Baby Jane one strap shoes.

The look was very much "little boy and little girl," according to a selected few who saw the opening show.

Fashion writers were held off until a late afternoon showing. The collection appeared to be more feminine than last season's.

His girls were still wholesome, sporty, healthy, fresh-air specimens, wearing their hair in short pony tails or short cut.

He showed scalloped edgings around necklines, hemlines, sleeves and pockets, similar to what Givenchy and Balenciaga have shown. There were heart-shaped necklines, a departure from stark geometry.

Red suits were piped in white. The collection closed with three girls dressed in red suits with varying white detailing.

Travel Like Mole?

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — An engineering professor at Southern Illinois University has an assignment to brainstorm an idea — travel underground.

U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is trying to come up with a vehicle that will split rock to tunnel along its own roadway deep inside the earth.

Prof. Eldred Hough is trying to determine if it is possible for man to travel like a mole. The corps granted him $40,000 to explore his theories.

His working hypothesis is that a machine some 10 feet long could be designed. It would use a self-contained hydraulic fracturing unit.

Hough's underground vehicle might use a technique discovered 17 years ago to boost productivity of oil wells. It would propel itself with a battery of pistons, forcing fluid into the fracture it creates and enlarge it by a given amount and crawl into the space.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official weather bureau summary of Ohio conditions:

Cloudy but dry weather was the rule across Ohio early this morning. Temperatures in most sections were at the same or at higher levels than Friday afternoon. This was the direct result of warm southwesterly winds.

At 6 a.m. Saturday representative temperatures included Columbus, Cleveland and Toledo 29, Cincinnati 27 and Marietta 30.

Cloudiness will persist over Ohio through Sunday. Rather strong southwesterly winds figured to lift temperatures today to around 40 in the northern portions and to near 50 in the extreme south.

Colder air is scheduled to arrive tonight. Temperatures are expected to fall into the teens in northwestern Ohio and the 20s elsewhere. Then on Sunday temperatures should be no higher than the 20s.

There is a chance that with the turn to colder tonight a few light snow flurries could develop over the northern half of the state. Snow flurries are also likely Sunday for northeastern Ohio.

NORTHWEST OHIO—Cloudy, windy, colder tonight, a few snow flurries; low 12-18. Partly cloudy, colder Sunday, a few snow flurries east.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy, colder tonight; low 20-25. Partly cloudy, colder Sunday.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly cloudy, colder tonight and Sunday. Low tonight in low 20s, high Sunday in upper 20s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Cloudy, colder tonight and Sunday. Low tonight in low 20s, high Sunday about 30.

Ex-Ambassador William Bullitt Is Gravely Ill

PARIS (AP) — William C. Bullitt, first U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, was reported in grave condition at the American Hospital Friday, suffering from leukemia.

Bullitt, 76, was admitted to the hospital three weeks ago, but left after a few days. He was readmitted last week. When President Franklin D. Roosevelt established diplomatic relations with the Soviet in 1933, Bullitt was his choice to serve as U.S. ambassador in Moscow, a post he held until 1936.

Bullitt then moved to Paris, where he represented the United States as ambassador until 1941. He was then named ambassador-at-large. He left government service in 1943.

Report Indicates Smoke Killed Apollo Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Apollo astronauts reported fire in their spaceship three times within nine seconds and had started prescribed escape action when they died, investigators say.

A preliminary report made public Friday night — almost one week to the hour after the Cape Kennedy launch pad accident — indicated that smoke rather than fire killed the three astronauts.

"The official death certificates of the crew members list the cause of death as asphyxiation due to smoke inhalation due to the fire," said Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

In his lengthy report to NASA Administrator James E. Webb, Seamans said investigators still are without direct clues on what sparked the inferno during a test countdown that resulted in the deaths of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom, Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's associate administrator for manned space flight, said three unmanned Apollo flights will be launched this year as scheduled. But he set no new date for the first three-man orbital flight, postponed indefinitely by last week's fire.

Seamans said his report to Webb was based on preliminary information not yet extensively analyzed by a review board now investigating the accident.

The report said the cabin pressure, cabin temperature, and oxygen suit supply temperature were normal up to the time the fire was detected at 6:31:03 p.m.

After the third report of fire, the report said, "No other intelligible communications were received although some listeners believe there was one sharp cry of pain. Loss of radio signals occurred a few seconds later."

The oxygen supply to the astronauts' suits, which had remained at almost constant pressure and temperature, started to fluctuate at the time of signal loss, it added.

In the event of emergency, the report said, White, who as senior pilot was seated in the middle of the spacecraft, had been trained to reach high over his left shoulder to actuate the inner hatch release handle.

Command pilot Grissom, in the left seat, was to lower the center head rest, help the senior pilot lift the inner hatch and remove it to the spacecraft floor.

The pilot, Chaffee, meanwhile was to maintain communication and help remove the inner hatch if needed.

"The crew appeared to follow the correct procedure," the report said.

port said without elaboration. At the time the fire was detected, Seamans said the spacecraft was operating on external power. The fuel cells in the service compartment were not in use, he said, and the so-called internal power was being supplied by batteries.

"There is no evidence up to this time that the source of power... was related to the accident," Seamans said.

"The preliminary analysis points to the conclusion that a clear identification of the source of ignition or of its possible source will depend upon detailed step by step examination of the entire spacecraft and its related test equipment," he added.

Sources at Cape Kennedy said NASA is considering changing the pure oxygen environment of the Apollo cabin to an air-like mixture of nitrogen and oxygen to reduce the fire hazard.

The oxygen-nitrogen breathing system would be used only during ground testing and during the launch phase. Once in orbit the cabin would be pressurized with pure oxygen. In orbit, the cabin could be decompressed rapidly, snuffing out any fire in the vacuum of space — something that cannot be done on the ground.

Should such a major redesign of the spacecraft be ordered, the delay in the nation's moon landing program could stretch far beyond the apparent initial delay of at least six months caused by the accident.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather bureau summary of Ohio conditions:

Cloudy but dry weather was the rule across Ohio early this morning. Temperatures in most sections were at the same or at higher levels than Friday afternoon. This was the direct result of warm southwesterly winds.

At 6 a.m. Saturday representative temperatures included Columbus, Cleveland and Toledo 29, Cincinnati 27 and Marietta 30.

Cloudiness will persist over Ohio through Sunday. Rather strong southwesterly winds figured to lift temperatures today to around 40 in the northern portions and to near 50 in the extreme south.

Colder air is scheduled to arrive tonight. Temperatures are expected to fall into the teens in northwestern Ohio and the 20s elsewhere. Then on Sunday temperatures should be no higher than the 20s.

There is a chance that with the turn to colder tonight a few light snow flurries could develop over the northern half of the state. Snow flurries are a so likely Sunday for northeastern Ohio.

Courreges Models Look More Like Women This Year

PARIS (AP) — Courreges brought out skirts three inches above the knee in his spring and summer collection Friday, and added knee-high striped socks with Baby Jane one strap shoes.

The look was very much "little boy and little girl," according to a selected few who saw the opening show.

Fashion writers were held off until a late afternoon showing.

The collection appeared to be more feminine than last season's.

His girls were still wholesome, sporty, healthy, fresh-air specimens, wearing their hair in short pony tails or short cut.

He showed scalloped edgings around necklines, hemlines, sleeves and pockets, similar to what Givenchy and Balenciaga have shown. There were heart-shaped necklines, a departure from stark geometry.

Red suits were piped in white. The collection closed with three girls dressed in red suits with varying white detailing.

Ex-Ambassador William Bullitt Is Gravely Ill

PARIS (AP) — William C. Bullitt, first U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, was reported in grave condition at the American Hospital Friday, suffering from leukemia.

Bullitt, 76, was admitted to the hospital three weeks ago, but left after a few days. He was readmitted last week.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt established diplomatic relations with the Soviet in 1933, Bullitt was his choice to serve as U.S. ambassador in Moscow, a post he held until 1936.

Bullitt then moved to Paris, where he represented the United States as ambassador until 1941. He was then named ambassador-at-large. He left government service in 1945.

Garden Club Meet Planned

The Monrovia Garden Club will meet 8 p. m. Monday in the home of Mrs. John O'Day. Mrs. Bruce Cochran and Miss Freda Clarridge will be assisting hostesses.

Each member is asked to bring a dried arrangement in an antique container.

Report Indicates Smoke Killed Apollo Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Apollo astronauts reported fire in their spaceship three times within nine seconds and had started prescribed escape action when they died, investigators say.

A preliminary report made public Friday night — almost one week to the hour after the Cape Kennedy launch pad accident — indicated that smoke rather than fire killed the three astronauts.

"The official death certificates of the crew members list the cause of death as asphyxiation due to smoke inhalation due to the fire," said Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

In his lengthy report to NASA Administrator James E. Webb, Seamans said investigators still are without direct clues on what sparked the inferno during a test countdown that resulted in the deaths of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom, Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's associate administrator for manned space flight, said three unmanned Apollo flights will be launched this year as scheduled. But he set no new date for the first three-man orbital flight, postponed indefinitely by last week's fire.

Seamans said his report to Webb was based on preliminary information not yet extensively analyzed by a review board now investigating the accident.

The report said the cabin pressure, cabin temperature, and oxygen suit supply temperature were normal up to the time the fire was detected at 6:31:03 p.m.

After the third report of fire, the report said, "No other intelligible communications were received although some listeners believe there was one sharp cry of pain. Loss of radio signals occurred a few seconds later."

The oxygen supply to the astronauts' suits, which had remained at almost constant pressure and temperature, started to fluctuate at the time of signal loss, it added.

In the event of emergency, the report said, White, who as senior pilot was seated in the middle of the spacecraft, had been trained to reach high over his left shoulder to actuate the inner hatch release handle.

Command pilot Grissom, in the left seat, was to lower the center head rest, help the senior pilot lift the inner hatch and remove it to the spacecraft floor.

The pilot, Chaffee, meanwhile was to maintain communication and help remove the inner hatch if needed.

"The crew appeared to follow the correct procedure," the report said without elaboration.

The pilot, Chaffee, meanwhile was to maintain communication and help remove the inner hatch if needed.

"The crew appeared to follow the correct procedure," the report said without elaboration.

At the time the fire was detected, Seamans said the spacecraft was operating on external power. The fuel cells in the service compartment were not in use, he said, and the so-called internal power was being supplied by batteries.

"There is no evidence up to this time that the source of power... was related to the accident," Seamans said.

"The preliminary analysis points to the conclusion that a clear identification of the source of ignition or of its possible source will depend upon detailed step by step examination of the entire spacecraft and its related test equipment," he added.

Sources at Cape Kennedy said NASA is considering changing the pure oxygen environment of the Apollo cabin to an air-like mixture of nitrogen and oxygen to reduce the fire hazard.

The oxygen-nitrogen breathing system would be used only during ground testing and during the launch phase. Once in orbit the cabin would be pressurized with pure oxygen. In orbit, the cabin could be decompressed rapidly, snuffing out any fire in the vacuum of space — something that cannot be done on the ground.

Should such a major redesign of the spacecraft be ordered, the delay in the nation's moon landing program could stretch far beyond the apparent initial delay of at least six months caused by the accident.

Use pipe cleaners dipped in kerosene to clean sewing machines, slot-car or model railroad equipment.

Logan Elm Edges Westfall 52-47 in Thrilling SVC Tilt

A great second half effort gave the Logan Elm Braves a 52-47 victory over the Westfall Mustangs in a Scioto Valley Conference game Friday played on the loser team's floor.

The Braves outscored Westfall, 30-15, in the final two periods after trailing by 10 points at halftime.

In the first quarter, neither team could get a comfortable lead. At the end of the first eight minutes, Westfall led, 14-12.

In the second quarter, Westfall quickly opened up a six point lead and with two minutes still to go in the period, led by ten. The score when the teams went into the dressing rooms at halftime was 32-22.

BOUNCING back in the first four minutes of the third period, the Braves held Westfall scoreless while tossing in 11 points to take a 33-32 lead.

At the third quarter break, Logan Elm trailed, 33-37. For the first six minutes of the final period, never more than three points separated the two teams.

With 2:30 to go in the game, the Braves moved ahead, 47-46 and were never behind.

"It was the greatest second half effort any Logan Elm team has ever had," Keith Merrin, the Braves' coach said after the tilt.

And no one should be in a better position to know than the Braves' only varsity cage coach who has guided Logan Elm cage teams to 104 victories during his tenure.

Tom Smith was the leading scorer in the game. Deadly at the foul line, particularly in the final two minutes of the tilt when the points counted, Smith tossed in four field goals and zipped through eight charity tosses for 18.

RUSS MERRIN was held to his lowest point production of the year, hitting five field goals and two foul shots for 12. Jim Moorehead hit five field goals and one foul for 11 markers.

Ken Palmer tossed in eight points. Steve Fouch scored three and Dale Jenne two. Greg Fraunfelter, who saw a lot of action in the tilt, was scoreless.

For Westfall, Charles Palmer paced the four Mustangs who scored with an 18 point effort. Palmer hit five field goals and eight charity tosses for a total of 18.

Ed Cornwell scored 13 points on six field goals and one foul shot. Delbert Haney notched nine and Andy Hamman seven. Tony Lightie, the other starter for Westfall, was scoreless.

Logan Elm won the battle of the boards, 33-20. Russ Merrin was credited with 11 rebounds by Logan Elm chartkeepers.

The Braves had 12 turnovers and Westfall had 15. For the Braves, Merrin and Smith both were credited with three assists.

Wildcats Are Victims of 4th Period Rally

A fourth quarter rally gave New Lexington St. Aloysius a 57-55 win over visiting Laurelville Friday.

The St. Al cagers trailed by 10 points, 48-38, as the last frame began.

With six minutes to go in the game, Laurelville's big center, Bob Bowers, fouled out. With Bowers out, the little Wildcats could not stay with the taller New Lexington quintet.

Bowers had a total of 19 points and 16 rebounds before he exited from the game with his fifth personal foul.

GRABBING game scoring laurels was Steve Hettinger, who hit seven field goals and nine foul shots for a total of 23 markers. Mike Kneese scored ten and Mike Chestnut three. For the winners, Tague notched 19.

Laurelville lost the game at the foul line. Both teams made 20 field goals. But the winners scored two more points at the charity stripe.

The Wildcats hit 15 of 25 foul shots and New Lexington 17 of 36. From the field, Laurelville connected on 20 of 58.

Laurelville has an overall record of 11 wins and seven losses.

Tonight they host Unioto in a Scioto Valley Conference game.

Tom Weiskopf Leading At 4th Round in Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Seventeen professional golfers were jammed at the top within a spread of three strokes today as play continued in the $110,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Leading the scene going into the fourth round of the 90-hole drama, which concludes Sunday, was young Tom Weiskopf, a relative stranger to such prominence.

And lurking in the wings as the plot thickens, to borrow a few cliches from the world of the theater, were such heroes—or to some, villains—as Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper, Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders.

Weiskopf, who had a unique experience in his debut in the Hope last year, moved ahead Friday with scores of 72-70-68—

Zane Trace Falls, 79-51

Zane Trace fell to fourth place in the Ross County League race, losing to Paint Valley, 79-51, on the Bearcats' floor.

The Pioneers were never in serious contention in the tilt, trailing 16-10, 32-22 and 54-29 at the quarter breaks.

Bob Maxwell scored 20 points for the Zane Trace. Dave Kinnamon led the winners with 24 markers.

The Bearcats won the preliminary game, 47-34. Tonight, Zane Trace will host Westfall.

Tom Cassidy To Start Tour At Doral Open

Tom Cassidy, former Pickaway Country Club pro who resigned his post in 1965 to play professionally, heads for Florida next week to brush up his game for this year's tour.

The first tournament Cassidy will make a bid to enter is the Doral Open at Miami, Fla.

He plans to hit just about every tournament on the PGA tour this year.

After Doral, Cassidy will move northward with the other members of the tour, playing at Orlando, Jacksonville and Pensacola.

CASSADY, whose freshman year on the tour was not too successful, reports that he feels great and expects a good year.

Cassidy has been associated with the game of golf ever since he was an 8-year-old caddy at the Marietta Country Club.

Right after he graduated from Marietta High School, Cassidy came here as an assistant golf pro. The next year he was made pro and held that spot for three years.

Reynoldsburg Takes First Metropolitan League Cage Crown

Teays Valley dropped out of contention for the Metropolitan League cage title last night when Whitehall blasted the visiting Vikings, 88-56.

Undeleted Reynoldsburg wrapped up the title last night, downing Hamilton Twp., 84-49.

The Vikings are in second place in the league with a 6-2 record. Overall the Vikings have won nine and lost five. Reynoldsburg is 9-0 in the league. Whitehall, in third place, has won five and lost four.

With Lew Anderson pumping in 27 points, Whitehall never trailed in the tilt.

THE SCORE stood at 17-10 with the Rams leading it the end of the first quarter. At halftime, they held a 37-28 lead.

In the third quarter Whitehall exploded for 23 points making the score 60-42. In the fourth the hosts tossed in 28 points.

Rod Teets was the leading scorer for Teays Valley, making seven field goals and one foul shot for 15 points. Jim Estep scored 12 for the losers.

The Vikings grabbed 43 rebounds in the game with Teets getting 10 and Mike Lombardo 10.

Teays Valley hit 14 of 29 foul shots for a 48 per cent average.

From the field, they connected on 21 of 51 shots for a 41 per cent average.

A total of 10 Teays Valley players broke into the scoring column last night.

WHITEHALL also won the preliminary game by a score of 45-39.

Tonight, the Vikings host Logan Elm in a replay of an annual clash.

Teays Valley has never lost a basketball game to the Braves. A capacity plus crowd is expected for the tilt at the spacious Vikings gymnasium.

What Selling Newspapers Did For Willie Mays

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The most important thing I got out of being a newspaperboy was a strong pair of legs and enough money to buy my first baseball glove."

Those are the words of Willie Mays, who has used his legs and glove in center field for the San Francisco Giants.

Mays was named by the California Newspaperboy Foundation as Yesterday's Newspaperboy—Today's Leader. He got the award at a breakfast meeting today of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Mays delivered the Birmingham, Ala., News in Fairfield, Ala.

Tigers Defeat Washington, 78-59 With Best Performance of Season

The Circleville basketball squad put together its best four quarters of play Friday to defeat visiting Washington C. H., 78-59.

It was the third league win for Circleville against six losses and the sixth victory of the season in 15 games.

Tim Stonerock scored his career high with 39 points. The nifty Tiger cager hit 15 of 23 shots from the field and connected on nine of 12 at the charity stripe as he turned in one of his best shooting nights.

★ ★ Young's Goal Wins for CHS Reserve Squad

Mike Young connected on a 25 foot desperation shot with two seconds on the clock to give the Circleville junior varsity a 31-30 decision over the visiting Washington C. H. reserve squad.

For Young, it was the only bucket of the game, but it is probably the only one the Tiger fans who watched the tilt remember.

Gene Dyke carried the bulk of the scoring load last night, connecting on five field goals and adding two at the foul line for a total of 12 points. Most of Dyke's buckets came from the left corner.

Phil Diehl scored nine points for the young Tigers, sinking three baskets from the field and three at the foul line. Frankie Carter notched six on three field goals and Dan Willis scored one bucket for two points.

WILLIS was the leading scorer for the Washington team.

Circleville led in the game, 9-6 at the end of the first quarter. At halftime, the Blue Lions were on top, 14-11.

The Blue Lions still held a lead, 23-21, as the final quarter got under way and they were never behind until Young scored his winning field goal.

The Circleville reserves have an overall record of five wins and ten losses. They are 3-6 in the league. Washington reserves are 2-6 in the league and 4-11 overall.

★ ★ Trace Earns Share of Loop

Miami Trace, by virtue of a thrilling 73-72 victory over host Greenfield McClain Friday night, earned at least a share of the 1966-67 South Central Ohio League crown.

Wilmington topped Hillsboro, 75-55, to remain in second as the loop runs down to the last few tilts.

The Panthers of Trace own an 8-0 record in league play and are 12-3 over-all. If they should lose to Washington and Hillsboro, Wilmington could grab a share of the title by winning over Greenfield.

Greenfield has a solid hold on third place. The Tigers have five wins against three losses in league action. Wilmington and Washington remain on the schedule.

CIRCLEVILLE is in danger of sinking to the bottom of the ladder. The Tigers have only one more league foe, Hillsboro. Both Washington and Hillsboro share the cellar in the league with one win in eight contests. If either should win their next two games and Circleville should lose, they both would sport 3-7 records.

Upcoming action Friday finds Greenfield at Wilmington, Miami Trace at Washington and Circleville at Hillsboro.

The following Friday ends league play when Washington takes on Greenfield and Hillsboro goes to Miami Trace half of the Tiger points, Dan Speakman got hot for his second high of 18 points, and Joe Winer zipped six field goals through the nets for 12.

ALL THREE boys are seniors and played their last home game of the season. Other seniors who started for the Tigers last night were Mike Martindill, who scored two points, and Danny Gibbs.

The seniors played most of the tilt last night, although Martindill was relieved by Jeff Steele when he got in early foul trouble. Steele scored five markers.

Rick Congrove came in for Gibbs in the second half and scored two points for the Tigers.

Circleville cagers fired a total of 68 shots toward the bucket during the game and made 32 of the attempts.

That is a 47 per cent accuracy rate for the team. At the foul line, Circleville connected on 14 of 20 tries for a 70 per cent mark.

Washington's leading scorer last night was Don Kirk, who zipped in five field goals and added four at the foul line for 14. Randy Lemaster notched 13 and Bob Lentz, their leading scorer for the year, was held to 12.

STONEROCK scored the first basket of the game and the Tigers trailed only three times after that.

Midway through the first quarter, a tip in shot that Stonerock and Winer both had a hand on gave Circleville a 12-6 lead. The official scorers gave the bucket to Stonerock.

By the end of the first period, the Tigers were leading 15-11.

In the second period, Bob Lentz's 30-foot jump shot gave the visitors their first lead in the game, 18-17. Stonerock tied the score with a foul shot, but a pair of charity tosses by Lemaster put the Blue Lions in the lead once again.

During the next minute, Stonerock and Steel combined for five points to give Circleville a 23-20 edge.

Then the Blue Lions began to move again and Don Kirk finally gave Washington another lead at 28-27 with 2:10 remaining in the second period.

SPEAKMAN sank a bucket for the Tigers right after that and the Red and Black never trailed again. By halftime, the score stood at 35-29.

Finding the range for 21 points in the third quarter, Circleville opened up a 56-46 lead in the game.

And the Tigers kept their momentum going in the fourth period, scoring 22 points.

Circleville outscored the taller Washington quintet, 32-23.

The Tigers committed only seven turnovers in the game. Washington had ten bobbles. "It looked like our best game," Tiger Coach Chuck Hill said after the tilt. "But then you have to look good when you are shooting like that."

"I DON'T believe I could see much wrong with any part of out game. Our zone defense looked pretty good, and we didn't have any trouble with either their zone or their man to man defense."

Tonight the Tigers have a tough contest at Bexley.

Earlier in the season, the Bexley Lions fashioned a 78-51 victory over Circleville in the Mill St. gymnasium.

CARL K. BENHASE

Former Tiger Mentor Pens Grid Book

Carl K. (Benny) Benhase, football coach at Circleville High School from 1959 through 1962, has written a book, "Ohio High School Football."

Published by Prentice-Hall Inc., the book will be released March 1.

Benhase is currently serving as head football coach at Portsmouth High School, where his 1966 team finished with an 8-2 record.

It was the first winning Trojan team since 1958. In ten years of coaching Ohio high school football teams, Benhase has compiled a 59-31-6 record, had four league championships and two undefeated seasons.

IN FOUR years at Circleville, Benhase's teams compiled a 27-10-2 record. In 1961 Circleville won a share of the South Central Ohio League crown and in 1962 had a perfect season, winning 10 games and the loop title.

After leaving Circleville, Benhase went to Hanover College in Indiana as head grid coach.

In two years at the small college, his teams had only one win.

From Hanover he went to Portsmouth to rebuild the Trojan football program.

Logan Elm Edges Westfall 52-47 in Thrilling SVC Tilt

A great second half effort gave the Logan Elm Braves a 52-47 victory over the Westfall Mustangs in a Scioto Valley Conference game Friday played on the loser team's floor.

The Braves outscored Westfall, 30-15, in the final two periods after trailing by 10 points at halftime.

In the first quarter, neither team could get a comfortable lead. At the end of the first eight minutes, Westfall led, 14-12.

In the second quarter, Westfall quickly opened up a six point lead and with two minutes still to go in the period, led by ten. The score when the teams went into the dressing rooms at halftime was 32-22.

BOUNCING back in the first four minutes of the third period, the Braves held Westfall scoreless while tossing in 11 points to take a 33-32 lead.

At the third quarter break, Logan Elm trailed, 35-37. For the first six minutes of the final period, never more than three points separated the two teams.

With 2:26 to go in the game, the Braves moved ahead, 47-46 and were never behind.

"It was the greatest second half effort any Logan Elm team has ever had," Keith Merrin, the Braves' coach said after the tilt.

And no one should be in a better position to know than the Braves' only varsity coach who has guided Logan Elm cage teams to 104 victories during his tenure.

Tom Smith was the leading scorer in the game. Deadly at the foul line, particularly in the final two minutes of the tilt when the points counted, Smith tossed in four field goals and zipped through eight charity tosses for 16.

RUSS MERRIN was held to his lowest point production of the year, hitting five field goals and two foul shots for 12. Jim Moorehead hit five field goals and one foul for 11 markers.

Ken Palmer tossed in eight points, Steve Fouch scored three and Dale Jenne two. Greg Fraunfelder, who saw a lot of action in the tilt, was scoreless.

For Westfall, Charles Palmer paced the four Mustangs who scored with an 18 point effort. Palmer hit five field goals and eight charity tosses for a total of 18.

Ed Cornwell scored 13 points on six field goals and one foul shot, Delbert Haney notched nine and Andy Hamman seven. Tony Lightie, the other starter for Westfall, was scoreless.

Logan Elm won the battle of the boards, 33-20. Russ Merrin was credited with 11 rebounds by Logan Elm chartkeepers.

The Braves had 12 turnovers and Westfall had 15. For the Braves, Merrin and Smith both were credited with three assists.

Wildcats Are Victims of 4th Period Rally

A fourth quarter rally gave New Lexington St. Aloysius a 57-55 win over visiting Laurelville Friday.

The St. Al eagles trailed by 10 points, 48-38, as the last frame began.

With six minutes to go in the game, Laurelville's big center, Bob Bowers, fouled out. With Bowers out, the little Wildcats could not stay with the taller New Lexington quintet.

Bowers had a total of 19 points and 16 rebounds before he exited from the game with his fifth personal foul.

GRABBING game scoring laurels was Steve Hettinger, who hit seven field goals and nine foul shots for a total of 23 markers. Mike Kneecore scored ten and Mike Chestnut three. For the winners, Tague notched 19.

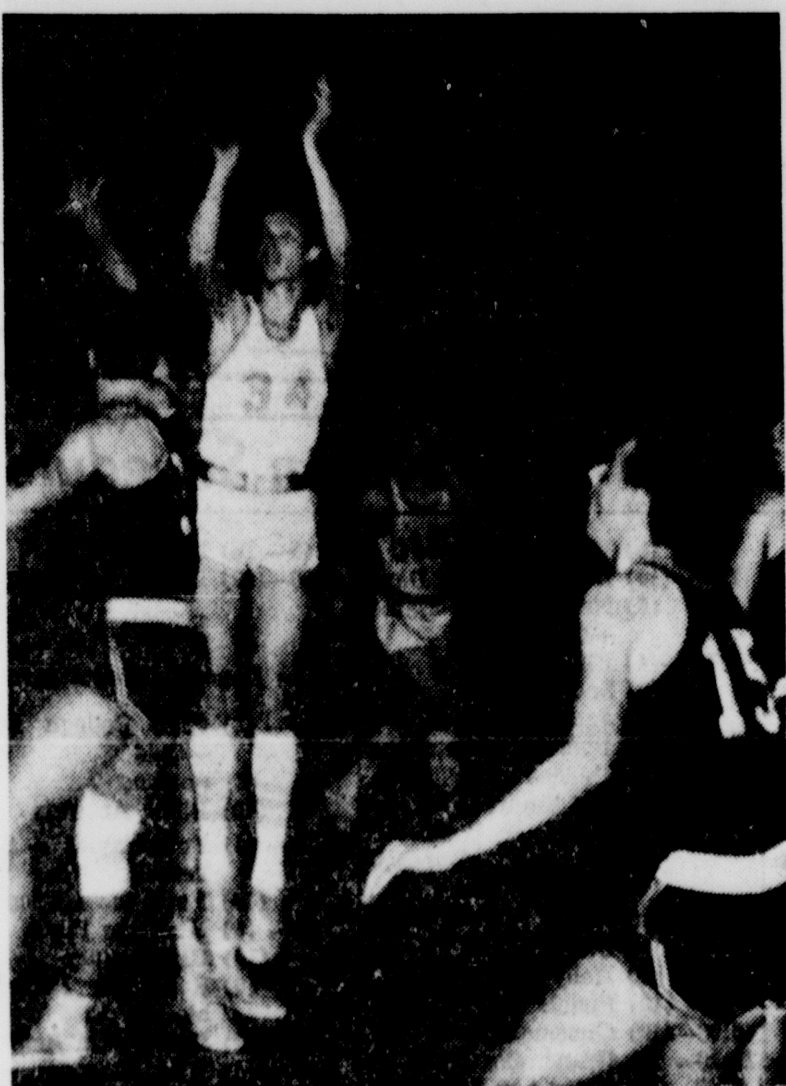

Laurelville lost the game at the foul line. Both teams made 20 field goals. But the winners scored two more points at the charity stripe.

The Wildcats hit 15 of 25 foul shots and New Lexington 17 of 36. From the field, Laurelville connected on 20 of 58.

Laurelville has an overall record of 11 wins and seven losses.

Tonight they host Unioto in a Scioto Valley Conference game.

Tom Weiskopf Leading At 4th Round in Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Seventeen professional golfers were jammed at the top within a spread of three strokes today as play continued in the $10,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Leading the scene going into the fourth round of the 90-hole drama, which concludes Sunday, was young Tom Weiskopf, a relative stranger to such prominence.

And lurking in the wings as the plot thickens, to borrow a few cliches from the world of the theater, were heroes—or to some, villains—as Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper, Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders.

Weiskopf, who had a unique experience in his debut in the Hope last year, moved ahead Friday with scores of 72-70-68—

Tom Cassidy To Start Tour At Doral Open

Tom Cassidy, former Pickaway Country Club pro who resigned his post in 1965 to play professionally, heads for Florida next week to brush up his game for this year's tour.

The first tournament Cassidy will make a bid to enter is the Doral Open at Miami, Fla. He plans to hit just about every tournament on the PGA tour this year.

After Doral, Cassidy will move northward with the other members of the tour, playing at Orlando, Jacksonville and Pensacola.

CASSADY, whose freshman year on the tour was not too successful, reports that he feels great and expects a good year. Cassidy has been associated with the game of golf ever since he was an 8-year-old caddy at the Marietta Country Club.

Right after he graduated from Marietta High School, Cassidy came here as an assistant golf pro. The next year he was made pro and held that spot for three years.

Reynoldsburg Takes First Metropolitan League Cage Crown

Teays Valley dropped out of contention for the Metropolitan League cage title last night when Whitehall blasted the visiting Vikings, 88-56.

Undeclared Reynoldsburg wrapped up the title last night, downing Hamilton Twp., 84-49.

The Vikings are in second place in the league with a 6-2 record. Overall the Vikings have won nine and lost five. Reynoldsburg is 9-0 in the league. Whitehall, in third place, has won five and lost four.

With Lew Anderson pumping in 27 points, Whitehall never trailed in the tilt.

THE SCORE stood at 17-10 with the Rams leading it the end of the first quarter. At halftime, they held a 37-28 lead. In the third quarter Whitehall exploded for 23 points making the score 60-42. In the fourth the hosts tossed in 28 points.

Rod Teets was the leading scorer for Teays Valley, making seven field goals and one foul shot for 15 points. Jim Estep scored 12 for the losers.

The Vikings grabbed 43 rebounds in the game with Teets getting 10 and Mike Lombardo 10.

Teays Valley hit 14 of 29 foul shots for a 48 per cent average.

From the field, they connected on 21 of 51 shots for a 41 per cent average.

A total of 10 Teays Valley players broke into the scoring column last night.

WHITEHALL also won the preliminary game by a score of 45-39.

Tonight, the Vikings host Logan Elm in a replay of an annual clash.

Teays Valley has never lost a basketball game to the Braves. A capacity plus crowd is expected for the tilt at the spacious Viking gymnasium.

What Selling Newspapers Did For Willie Mays

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The most important thing I got out of being a newspaperboy was a strong pair of legs and enough money to buy my first baseball glove."

Those are the words of Willie Mays, who has used his legs and glove in center field for the San Francisco Giants.

Mays was named by the California Newspaperboy Foundation as Yesterday's Newspaperboy—Today's Leader. He got the award at a breakfast meeting today of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Mays delivered the Birmingham, Ala., News in Fairfield, Ala.

Tigers Defeat Washington, 78-59 With Best Performance of Season

The Circleville basketball squad put together its best four quarters of play Friday to defeat visiting Washington C. H., 78-59.

It was the third league win for Circleville against six losses and the sixth victory of the season in 15 games.

Tim Stonerock scored his career high with 39 points. The fifty Tiger cager hit 15 of 23 shots from the field and connected on nine of 12 at the charity stripe as he turned in one of his best shooting nights.

★ ★ Young's Goal Wins for CHS Reserve Squad

Mike Young connected on a 25 foot desperation shot with two seconds on the clock to give the Circleville junior varsity a 31-30 decision over the visiting Washington C. H. reserve squad.

For Young, it was the only bucket of the game, but it is probably the only one the Tiger fans who watched the tilt remember.

Gene Dyke carried the bulk of the scoring load last night, connecting on five field goals and adding two at the foul line for a total of 12 points. Most of Dyke's buckets came from the left corner.

Phil Diehl scored nine points for the young Tigers, sinking three baskets from the field and three at the foul line. Frankie Carter notched six on three field goals and Dan Willis scored one bucket for two points.

WILLIS was the leading scorer for the Washington team.

Circleville led in the game, 9-6 at the end of the first quarter. At halftime, the Blue Lions were on top, 14-11.

The Blue Lions still held a lead, 23-21, as the final quarter got under way and they were never behind until Young scored his winning field goal.

The Circleville reserves have an overall record of five wins and ten losses. They are 3-6 in the league. Washington reserves are 2-6 in the league and 4-11 overall.

Circleville	Diehl, 3-3-9; Willis, 1-0-2; Duke, 5-2-12; Carter, 3-0-6; Young, 1-0-2. Totals, 13-5-31.

★ ★ Trace Earns Share of Loop

Miami Trace, by virtue of a thrilling 73-72 victory over host Greenfield McClain Friday night, earned at least a share of the 1966-67 South Central Ohio League crown.

Wilmington topped Hillsboro, 75-55, to remain in second as the loop runs down to the last few tilts.

The Panthers of Trace own an 8-0 record in league play and are 12-3 over-all. If they should lose to Washington and Hillsboro, Wilmington could grab a share of the title by winning over Greenfield.

Greenfield has a solid hold on third place. The Tigers have five wins against three losses in league action. Wilmington and Washington remain on the schedule.

CIRCLEVILLE is in danger of sinking to the bottom of the ladder. The Tigers have only one more league foe, Hillsboro.

Both Washington and Hillsboro share the cellar in the league with one win in eight contests. If either should win their next two games and Circleville should lose, they both would sport 3-7 records.

Upcoming action Friday finds Greenfield at Wilmington, Miami Trace at Washington and Circleville at Hillsboro.

The following Friday ends league play when Washington takes on Greenfield and Hillsboro goes to Miami Trace.

Hillsboro	1	7	1	14

half of the Tiger points, Dan Speakman got hot for his second high of 18 points, and Joe Winner zipped six field goals through the nets for 12.

ALL THREE boys are seniors and played their last home game of the season. Other seniors who started for the Tigers last night were Mike Martindill, who scored two points, and Danny Gibbs.

The seniors played most of the tilt last night, although Martindill was relieved by Jeff Steele when he got in early foul trouble. Steele scored five markers.

Rick Congrove came in for Gibbs in the second half and scored two points for the Tigers.

Circleville eagles fired a total of 68 shots toward the bucket during the game and made 32 of the attempts.

That is a 47 per cent accuracy rate for the team. At the foul line, Circleville connected on 14 of 20 tries for a 70 per cent mark.

Washington's leading scorer last night was Don Kirk, who zipped in five field goals and added four at the foul line for 14. Randy Lemaster notched 13 and Bob Lentz, their leading scorer for the year, was held to 12.

STONEROCK scored the first basket of the game and the Tigers trailed only three times after that.

Midway through the first quarter, a tip in shot that Stonerock and Winner both had a hand on gave Circleville a 12-6 lead. The official scorers gave the bucket to Stonerock.

By the end of the first period, the Tigers were leading 15-11.

In the second period, Bob Lentz's 30-foot jump shot gave the visitors their first lead in the game, 18-17. Stonerock tied the score with a foul shot, but a pair of charity losses by Lemaster put the Blue Lions in the lead once again.

During the next minute, Stonerock and Steele combined for five points to give Circleville a 23-20 edge.

Then the Blue Lions began to move again and Don Kirk finally gave Washington another lead at 28-27 with 2:10 remaining in the second period.

SPEAKMAN sank a bucket for the Tigers right after that and the Red and Black never trailed again. By halftime, the score stood at 35-29.

Finding the range for 21 points in the third quarter, Circleville opened up a 56-46 lead in the game.

And the Tigers kept their momentum going in the fourth period, scoring 22 points.

Circleville outrebounded the taller Washington quintet, 32-23.

The Tigers committed only seven turnovers in the game. Washington had ten bobbles. "It looked like our best game," Tiger Coach Chuck Hill said after the tilt. "But then you have to look good when you are shooting like that."

"I DON'T believe I could see much wrong with any part of out game. Our zone defense looked pretty good, and we didn't have any trouble with either their zone or their man to man defense."

Tonight the Tigers have a tough contest at Bexley.

Earlier in the season, the Bexley Lions fashioned a 78-51 victory over Circleville in the Mill St. gymnasium.

CARL K. BENHASE

Former Tiger Mentor Pens Grid Book

Carl K. (Benny) Benhase, football coach at Circleville High School from 1959 through 1962, has written a book, "Ohio High School Football."

Published by Prentice-Hall Inc., the book will be released March 1.

Benhase is currently serving as head football coach at Portsmouth High School, where his 1966 team finished with an 8-2 record.

It was the first winning Trojan team since 1958. In ten years of coaching Ohio high school football teams, Benhase has compiled a 59-31-6 record, had four league championships and two undefeated seasons.

IN FOUR years at Circleville, Benhase's teams compiled a 27-10-2 record. In 1961 Circleville won a share of the South Central Ohio League crown and in 1962 had a perfect season, winning 10 games and the loop title.

After leaving Circleville, Benhase went to Hanover College in Indiana as head grid coach.

In two years at the small college, his teams had only one win.

From Hanover he went to Portsmouth to rebuild the Trojan football program.

Benhase was a clinic lecturer at the American Football Coaches Assn. annual convention Jan. 9-13 at Houston, Texas. He is scheduled to be a guest lecturer Feb. 11 at the Southwestern Ohio Football Coaches Assn. ninth annual football clinic at Cincinnati.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Ralph Hunt

Feb. 4, 1966.
Nothing but memories as we mourn
on.
Looking for a smile from a loved one gone.
None know the depths of our deep grief.
But we remember when others forget.
Sadly missed by wife and son,
Virginia and Victor.

In loving remembrance of our son Ralph Hunt Jr., who died 1 year ago.
Gone but not forgotten.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon his love has given,
And though the body slumber here
The soul is safe in Heaven.
Sadly missed by parents, Mr. and
Mrs. Ralph Hunt and sisters.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Ralph Hunt Jr., who passed away one year ago Feb. 4, 1966.
Nothing but memories as we journey on.
Looking for a smile from a loved one gone.
None know the depths of our deep regret.
But we remember when others forget.
Sadly missed by wife and son, Virginia and Victor.

In loving remembrance of our son Ralph J. Hunt Jr., who died 1 year ago today, February 4, 1966.
A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon his love has given.
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in Heaven.
Sadly missed by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt and sisters.

Mao's Book Doesn't Say Get Rid of Old Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It looks like a prayerbook, covered in bright red plastic. It is 5x3 1/4 inches and about a half-inch thick.

This is the book that is behind much of the turmoil in Communist China today. It is the bible of the teen-age Red Guards, from which they quote incessantly while they wreak mayhem on the "four olds" — old habits, customs, art and culture — in the so-called "great proletarian cultural revolution."

The book, distributed by the millions in China and bran-

dished aloft by hundreds of thousands of youngsters in demonstrations supporting their leader, is entitled "Quotations from Chairman Mao." The fly-leaf bears the old Communist war cry: "Proletarians of the world, unite!"

The pages include Chapter 8, entitled "People's War." In this chapter Mao Tse-tung instructs his disciples that all politics must come from the barrel of a gun and that "people's war," arising with the peasantry, can conquer the whole world.

The chapter begins: "Revolutionary war is a war of the masses. Only by mobilizing and relying on the masses can war be conducted." That is from an article by Chairman Mao entitled "Pay attention to the livelihood of the masses, pay attention to the method of work."

The first page of the book is politically significant. It carries, in his own handwriting, a signed instruction from Defense Minister Lin Biao, which says: "Read Chairman Mao's books, listen to Chairman Mao's words, and do your work according to Chairman Mao's instructions."

Lin is allied with Mao in the current Red Chinese struggle for power and is considered the leading contender for party leadership after Mao.

Bob Kennedy Sees Pope As Tour Ends

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., talked "in great detail" with Pope Paul VI today about ways of finding peace in Vietnam, then ended his European tour and flew toward New York.

After conferring with the head of the Roman Catholic Church for 35 minutes in the Pope's library, Kennedy said, "We talked of Vietnam and the entire Southeast Asian situation in great detail."

Kennedy said at the airport that any comment on a possible new papal peace move must come from the Vatican.

Kennedy said his European talks had been "very useful." His meeting with the Pope was the last of a series of private contacts with leaders in West European capitals to discuss world affairs, including Vietnam.

Kennedy's audience with the Pope came after statements by the senator that the coming weeks would be crucial in the search for a Vietnam solution. He said his talks in London, Paris, Bonn and Rome had reinforced this belief.

In a news conference Friday night Kennedy insisted there were indications of a change in Hanoi's attitude.

Reuther Bows

There was no sign that any other union would walk out.

Reuther made it clear he is not quitting as president of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, which has some 60 unions totaling six million members.

AFL-CIO headquarters here maintained official silence, but it was learned that Meany made no attempt to dissuade Reuther from resigning and immediately made plans to replace him on the federation's 29-man Executive Council when it meets in Miami Beach later this month.

Ohio Junior Miss Winners Selected Friday Night

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Winners were selected in various categories Friday night in the first round of the Ohio Junior Miss Pageant.

Pat Chorgan of Columbus, the Central Ohio Junior Miss, won the talent contest. The poise and appearance award was won by Rebecca Reed of Vandalia, entered as North Dayton Junior Miss.

Shari Combs of Middletown won the youth and physical fitness award. She entered as Middletown Junior Miss.

The girls judged in two divisions and additional winners in the same categories will be chosen tonight, when the winner of the Ohio Junior Miss title will be selected.

Driver Cited Into Court For OMVI

Circleville Municipal Court's traffic docket for Friday, rather light compared to other days this week, listed eight motorists cited by law enforcement officials.

One of the cases was an accusation of driving under the influence of intoxicants, filed against Claude Skeens, 30, of 218 Cedar Heights Road. He was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his driving rights suspended for six months. Other citations were:

Allen Asbury Moats, Circleville; $10 and costs for speeding 45 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone. He also was fined $50 and costs for driving while his license was suspended with $25 of the fine suspended.

Robert Fuller, 35, Lancaster; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 61 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Mary Lee Young, 30, Norwalk, Va.; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Daniel N. Harwitz, 24, Warrensville Heights; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

men. She said she did not know until her arrest that the man she was trying to help was a deserter from the East German army.

Matthews and Herrin were arrested in September 1965, and each received eight-year sentences in a one-day trial just before Christmas of that year. They were arrested as they tried to bring a 13-year-old girl to the parents in West Berlin. The girl was discovered by border guards in a special compartment in their car.

The two ex-GIs said they had "successfully brought out five refugees" before being caught. Herrin said he and Matthews were "treated very good because we are Negroes. The Communists told us we were being mistreated back in the states. They tried to make the most of it."

Lovett was arrested in May 1965 on charges stemming from a traffic incident in which several East Germans were injured. He had served about 21 months of his 27-month sentence. When asked what his plans were, he said, "Please, we are excited, tired and confused."

Woman Hurt In Accident On Route 23

Carla B. Hasler, 22, Vanceburg, Ky., was admitted to Berger Hospital at 9:35 p. m. Friday when she was injured in a one-car accident on Route 23 three miles north of the Pickaway-Ross County Line.

The State Highway Patrol said she lost control of her vehicle when it went off the right side of the road.

The vehicle swerved back across the road, went into the medial strip and rolled over. It was heavily damaged, officers said.

At 5:30 p. m. yesterday, a Chillicothe motorist was cited to appear in Circleville Municipal Court as the result of an accident.

His car struck a vehicle driven by Leslie E. Stollings, 26, Cleveland, the report noted. Stollings had slowed to turn left from Route 23 onto County Road 511.

Both cars were moderately damaged.

Mainly About People

Bruce W. Petzel, Kingston, has been admitted to Chillicothe Hospital.

Mrs. Dwight Shaeffer and daughter, New Holland, have been dismissed from Fayette Memorial Hospital in Washington, D. C.

There will be a furniture and antique sale at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, February 8 at 7 p. m.

Much Ado about Nothing, — With Cast of Stars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The capital's latest society tizzy has almost everything: the young fourth wife of a Supreme Court justice, a onetime movie star, and the question of whether the actress insulted the justice's wife at a White House dinner.

Maxine Cheshire wrote in a Washington Post article that Joan Crawford, the actress, belittled the background and table manners of the 23-year old wife of Justice William O. Douglas.

Miss Crawford replied: "I have never heard of anything so ridiculous. I have not even met Mrs. Douglas. She was at the table one seat removed from me. There was a man between us. I didn't attack her."

"Besides, who am I to criticize anybody? I was a waitress too, from the time I was nine."

Mrs. Douglas also had waited tables at one time.

Miss Crawford said she had stepped in, so to speak, when Mrs. Douglas, started to put a piece of cake on her finger bowl doily.

"I said 'Excuse me' to the gentleman on my right and took the doily off the plate. She didn't seem upset, we didn't exchange one word."

Judith Axler of the New York Sunday News said Miss Crawford reached across three people in her doily correcting role and said "That's the way we do it."

Miss Axler quoted Mrs. Douglas: "That was the first time I'd ever been insulted in Washington. Up to now everyone has been so nice."

Why Did Our Race Survive?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Man has a distinctive body odor and taste, an anthropologist says, and that has been the secret of his success at survival.

Man stayed alive for millions of years, while other animals fell prey to hungry carnivores because, says Dr. Louis S.B. Leakey, a noted anthropologist and paleontologist, man's smell and taste literally turns the stomachs of predatory animals.

"Nature endowed us, like the shrews, with something of either a nasty taste or smell," he said in a speech Wednesday at the Academy of Natural Sciences.

While this natural defense system became "obsolete" about two million years ago when primitive man learned how to use weapons, it kept him alive while his cousins died for at least 19 million years before then, Leakey said.

Leakey said he came to this conclusion by observing chimpanzees and baboons.

He said leopards and other predatory cats eat baboon babies "nearly every night," while leaving the chimps — man's distant cousins — alone.

"Man is not cat food. The chimps aren't cat food either," Leakey said.

Leakey, 63, is on a six-week visit to this country, where he will address medical and scientific meetings in New York, Chicago, Boulder, Colo., and San Francisco, before returning to his work in Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania.

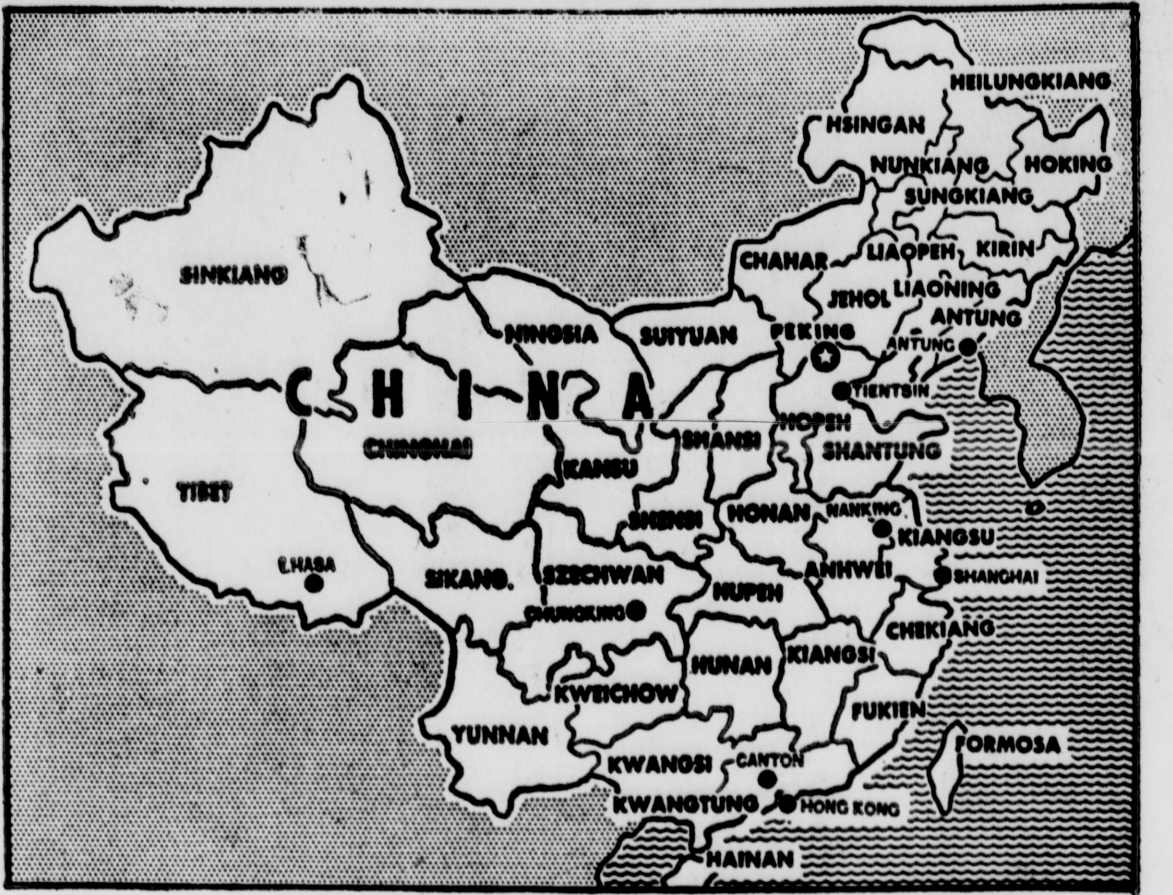

Part-Time Sanitarian Hired Here

Richard Brenner, 34, a resident of Lancaster, has been commissioned as sanitarian by Circleville City Board of Health.

Brenner, presently sanitarian for Lancaster, will serve in the same capacity here on a part-time basis. He plans to hold down both positions.

Brenner is to fill the vacancy left by Thoburn Blaney who resigned after many years of service with the city to take a position with the Pickaway County Health Department.

The hiring of Brenner was announced by John Himrod of the City Board of Health.

BLOODY TROUBLE could break out at any time in any of these Red China provinces. It has in Shansi, Kiangsi and Hopeh. Peking, Nanking, Canton are cities in most turmoil.

Travel Agent

In his statement, Barch said, "In addition to the efforts the government has undertaken to obtain this satisfactory solution of the case, I should call attention to efforts by Mr. Kazan-Komarek's two senators, Edward Kennedy and Edward Brooke, and by his congresswoman, Margaret Heckler."

It was understood Kennedy had, with State Department approval, written a personal letter to Czech President Antonin Novotny urging the travel agent's release. Brooke had wired the Czech ambassador this week, also urging suspension of the sentence and expulsion of Kazan-Komarek from the country.

The three-judge court in Prague convicted Kazan-Komarek of organizing and directing an antistate group as a paid agent of a foreign intelligence service from late 1948, after the Communists took over Czechoslovakia, until December 1950.

The court said Kazan-Komarek operated in West Germany and France as well as Czechoslovakia. He was charged with smuggling out people "in whom the foreign intelligence service was interested" and in bringing radio transmitters and arms into the country.

Antistate activities in Czechoslovakia theoretically are punishable by death, but this penalty has not been invoked since Stalin's time. In pronouncing sentence, the court said it took into account the fact that more than 16 years had elapsed since Kazan-Komarek engaged in espionage.

Kazan-Komarek was taken prisoner by the Germans in World War II, escaped and was employed by the U.S. Army in Nuernberg from May 1945, to May 1946. He lived in France for a while, emigrated to the United States in 1953 and became a U.S. citizen in 1960. He and his wife have five children.

Returning from a conference of travel agents in the Soviet capital, The Soviet travel service had invited him to attend the conference, which dealt with preparation for the 1967 international tourist year.

Levine Bound To Grand Jury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus youth has been bound to the Franklin County grand jury without bond in the slaying of his parents and grandmother.

The action came Friday against Harry (Benny) Levine Jr., 19, after three days of a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Robert M. Duncan.

The youth, accused on three counts of first-degree murder, had been arrested in the slayings of Harry Levine Sr., 47; Levine's wife, Geta, 52, and Mrs. Levine's mother, Mrs. Minnie Perrot, 82. The victims were found shot to death in their apartment last Dec. 9.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has crushed a move to make 70 the maximum age for Senate committee chairmen.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, 65, D-Pa., offered the proposal as one in a series of amendments to a congressional reorganization bill.

Even though he revised it at the last minute to exempt the five present committee chairmen over 70, Clark's amendment got only one vote — his.

Also defeated was a Clark proposal to end the custom of selecting Senate committee chairmen by seniority. His plan would have allowed majority members of a committee to elect a chairman by secret ballot.

The Senate has been debating the reorganization bill for seven days. Its sponsor, Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., voices misgivings about its chances of passage.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says "when anybody spoils for a fight, they are going to get one."

Dirksen didn't mention any names, but it was obvious his comment was directed at Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J. Case said in a television interview this week there is "a very definite possibility" that GOP moderates in the Senate would revolt against Dirksen's opposition to the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty.

Deaths

MR. CARLE J. SNIDER

Funeral services will be conducted 10 a. m. Monday in Detroit, Mich., for Mr. Carle J. Snider, 75, a former Circleville resident.

Mr. Snider died Thursday in Detroit. He moved from this community about seven years ago.

Services will be observed in St. Matthews Church in Detroit, under direction of the Eppens-Van Deweghe Funeral Home, also in Detroit.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. William Davis of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Anne Schleuderberg who reside in Connecticut.

MR. LAY WILSON

Mr. Lay Wilson, 95, died 2 a. m. Saturday in Gales Nursing Home, 459 N. Court St.

Mr. Wilson was born Aug. 1, 1871, in Athens County.

Funeral services will be 1:30 p. m. Monday in the Mader Funeral Home. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call Sunday at the funeral home.

CAPITAL FOOTNOTES

The White House says President Johnson will meet next Wednesday with West German Vice Chancellor Willy Brandt.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, accuses the State Department of a lack of initiative in negotiations with France over disposal of U.S. military installations there.

President Johnson intends to appoint William P. Kelly Jr. to head the Job Corps and Dr. William H. Crook to head the VISTA program.

Driver Suffers Severe Cuts In Accident

Roscoe Beavers, 79, Orient, suffered severe facial lacerations in a two-car collision 1:40 p. m. Friday at Routes 762 and 62.

Beavers was admitted to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, where he was taken following the accident by the Harrisburg emergency squad.

Also hurt in the accident were Sharon B. Ison, 22, who sustained a severely bruised leg; Faith A. Bradley, 19, abrasions and bruises; and Dave B. Ison, 22, scratches.

Deputies said the accident occurred when Beavers, northbound on 762, stopped at the intersection and then pulled into the path of the westbound vehicle driven by Donald E. Ison, Orient.

Both cars were heavily damaged. Beavers was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies for failure to yield the right of way.

Investigating the accident were Deputies James Lockard and George Linder.

Mao's Book Doesn't Say Get Rid of Old Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It looks like a prayerbook, covered in bright red plastic. It is 5x3 3/4 inches and about a half-inch thick.

This is the book that is behind much of the turmoil in Communist China today. It is the bible of the teen-age Red Guards, from which they quote incessantly while they wreak mayhem on the "four olds" — old habits, customs, art and culture — in the so-called "great proletarian cultural revolution."

The book, distributed by the millions in China and bran-

dished aloft by hundreds of thousands of youngsters in demonstrations supporting their leader, is entitled "Quotations from Chairman Mao." The flyleaf bears the old Communist war cry: "Proletarians of the world, unite!"

The pages include Chapter 8, entitled "People's War." In this chapter Mao Tse-tung instructs his disciples that all politics must come from the barrel of a gun and that "people's war," arising with the peasantry, can conquer the whole world.

The chapter begins: "Revolutionary war is a war of the masses. Only by mobilizing and relying on the masses can war be conducted." That is from an article by Chairman Mao entitled "Pay attention to the livelihood of the masses, pay attention to the method of work."

The first page of the book is politically significant. It carries, in his own handwriting, a signed instruction from Defense Minister Lin Biao, which says: "Read Chairman Mao's books, listen to Chairman Mao's words, and do your work according to Chairman Mao's instructions."

Lin is allied with Mao in the current Red Chinese struggle for power and is considered the leading contender for party leadership after Mao.

Bob Kennedy Sees Pope As Tour Ends

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., talked "in great detail" with Pope Paul VI today about ways of finding peace in Vietnam, then ended his European tour and flew toward New York.

After conferring with the head of the Roman Catholic Church for 35 minutes in the Pope's library, Kennedy said, "We talked of Vietnam and the entire Southeast Asian situation in great detail."

Kennedy said at the airport that any comment on a possible new papal peace move must come from the Vatican.

Kennedy said his European talks had been "very useful." His meeting with the Pope was the last of a series of private contacts with leaders in West European capitals to discuss world affairs, including Vietnam.

Kennedy's audience with the Pope came after statements by the senator that the coming weeks would be crucial in the search for a Vietnam solution. He said his talks in London, Paris, Bonn and Rome had reinforced this belief.

In a news conference Friday night Kennedy insisted there were indications of a change in Hanoi's attitude.

men. She said she did not know until her arrest that the man she was trying to help was a deserter from the East German army.

Matthews and Herrin were arrested in September 1965, and each received eight-year sentences in a one-day trial just before Christmas of that year. They were arrested as they tried to bring a 13-year-old girl to the parents in West Berlin. The girl was discovered by border guards in a special compartment in their car.

The two ex-GIs said they had "successfully brought out five refugees" before being caught. Herrin said he and Matthews were "treated very good because we are Negroes. The Communists told us we were being mistreated back in the states. They tried to make the most of it."

Lovett was arrested in May 1965 on charges stemming from a traffic incident in which several East Germans were injured. He had served about 21 months of his 27-month sentence. When asked what his plans were, he said, "Please, we are excited, tired and confused."

Woman Hurt In Accident On Route 23

Carla B. Hasler, 22, Vanceburg, Ky., was admitted to Berger Hospital at 9:35 p. m. Friday when she was injured in a one-car accident on Route 23 three miles north of the Pickaway-Ross County line.

The State Highway Patrol said she lost control of her vehicle when it went off the right side of the road.

The vehicle swerved back across the road, went into the median strip and rolled over. It was heavily damaged, officers said.

At 5:30 p. m. yesterday, a Chillicothe motorist was cited to appear in Circleville Municipal Court as the result of an accident.

His car struck a vehicle driven by Leslie E. Stollings, 25, Cleveland, the report noted. Stollings had slowed to turn left from Route 23 onto County Road 511.

Both cars were moderately damaged.

Bruce W. Petzel, Kingston, has been admitted to Chillicothe Hospital.

Mrs. Dwight Shaeffer and daughter, New Holland, have been dismissed from Fayette Memorial Hospital in Washington, D. C.

There will be a furniture and antique sale at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, February 8 at 7 p. m. —ad.

In his statement, Barch said, "In addition to the efforts the government had undertaken to obtain this satisfactory solution of the case, I should call attention to efforts by Mr. Kazan-Komarek's two senators, Edward Kennedy and Edward Brooke, and by his congresswoman, Margaret Heckler."

It was understood Kennedy had, with State Department approval, written a personal letter to Czech President Antonin Novotny urging the travel agent's release. Brooke had wired the Czech ambassador this week, also urging suspension of the sentence and expulsion of Kszan-Komarek from the country.

The three-judge court in Prague convicted Kazan-Komarek of organizing and directing an antigovernment group as a paid agent of a foreign intelligence service from late 1948, after the Communists took over Czechoslovakia, until December 1950.

The court said Kazan-Komarek operated in West Germany and France as well as Czechoslovakia. He was charged with smuggling out people "in whom the foreign intelligence service was interested" and in bringing radio transmitters and arms into the country.

Antistate activities in Czechoslovakia theoretically are punishable by death, but this penalty has not been invoked since Stalin's time. In pronouncing sentence, the court said it took into account the fact that more than 15 years had elapsed since Kazan-Komarek engaged in espionage.

Kazan-Komarek was taken prisoner by the Germans in World War II, escaped and was employed by the U.S. Army in Nuernberg from May 1945, to May 1946. He lived in France for a while, emigrated to the United States in 1953 and became a U.S. citizen in 1960. He and his wife have five children, returning from a conference of travel agents in the Soviet capital. The Soviet travel service had invited him to attend the conference, which dealt with preparation for the 1967 international tourist year.

Levine Bound To Grand Jury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus youth has been bound to the Franklin County grand jury without bond in the slaying of his parents and grandmother.

The action came Friday against Harry (Benny) Levine Jr., 19, after three days of a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Robert M. Duncan.

The youth, accused on three counts of first-degree murder, had been arrested in the slayings of Harry Levine Sr., 47; Levine's wife, Geta, 52, and Mrs. Levine's mother, Mrs. Minnie Perrot, 82. The victims were found shot to death in their apartment last Dec. 9.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has crushed a move to make 70 the maximum age for Senate committee chairmen.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, 65, D-Pa., offered the proposal as one in a series of amendments to a congressional reorganization bill.

Even though he revised it at the last minute to exempt the five present committee chairmen over 70, Clark's amendment got only one vote — his.

Also defeated was a Clark proposal to end the custom of selecting Senate committee chairmen by seniority. His plan would have allowed majority members of a committee to elect a chairman by secret ballot.

The Senate has been debating the reorganization bill for seven days. Its sponsor, Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., voices misgivings about its chances of passage.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says "when anybody spoils for a fight, they are going to get one."

Dirksen didn't mention any names, but it was obvious his comment was directed at Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J. Case said in a television interview this week there is "a very definite possibility" that GOP moderates in the Senate would revolt against Dirksen's opposition to the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty.

Much Ado about Nothing, — With Cast of Stars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The capital's latest society tizzy has almost everything: the young fourth wife of a Supreme Court justice, a onetime movie star, and the question of whether the actress insulted the justice's wife at a White House dinner.

Maxine Cheshire wrote in a Washington Post article that Joan Crawford, the actress, belittled the background and table manners of the 23-year old wife of Justice William O. Douglas.

Miss Crawford replied: "I have never heard of anything so ridiculous. I have not even met Mrs. Douglas. She was at the table one seat removed from me. There was a man between us. I didn't attack her."

"Besides, who am I to criticize anybody? I was a waitress too, from the time I was nine."

Mrs. Douglas also had waited tables at one time.

Miss Crawford said she had stepped in, so to speak, when Mrs. Douglas, started to put a piece of cake on her finger bowl doily.

"I said 'Excuse me' to the gentleman on my right and took the doily off the plate. She didn't seem upset, we didn't exchange one word."

Judith Axler of the New York Sunday News said Miss Crawford reached across three people in her doily correcting role and said "That's the way we do it."

Miss Axler quoted Mrs. Douglas:

"That was the first time I'd ever been insulted in Washington. Up to now everyone has been so nice."

Why Did Our Race Survive?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Man has a distinctive body odor and taste, an anthropologist says, and that has been the secret of his success at survival.

Man stayed alive for millions of years, while other animals fell prey to hungry carnivores because, says Dr. Louis S.B. Leakey, a noted anthropologist and paleontologist, man's smell and taste literally turns the stomachs of predatory animals.

"Nature endowed us, like the shrews, with something of either a nasty taste or smell," he said in a speech Wednesday at the Academy of Natural Sciences.

While this natural defense system became "obsolete" about two million years ago when primitive man learned how to use weapons, it kept him alive while his cousins died for at least 19 million years before then, Leakey said.

Leakey said he came to this conclusion by observing chimpanzees and baboons.

He said leopards and other predatory cats steal baboon babies "nearly every night," while leaving the chimps — man's distant cousins — alone. "Man is not cat food. The chimps aren't cat food either," Leakey said.

Leakey, 63, is on a six-week visit to this country, where he will address medical and scientific meetings in New York, Chicago, Boulder, Colo., and San Francisco, before returning to his work in Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania.

Part-Time Sanitarian Hired Here

Richard Brenner, 34, a resident of Lancaster, has been commissioned as sanitarian by Circleville City Board of Health.

Brenner, presently sanitarian for Lancaster, will serve in the same capacity here on a part-time basis. He plans to hold down both positions.

Brenner is to fill the vacancy left by Thorburn Blaney who resigned after many years of service with the city to take a position with the Pickaway County Health Department.

The hiring of Brenner was announced by John Himrod of the City Board of Health.
